FOREWORD

The Hlayiseka Early Warning System was developed with the intention of assisting schools and communities to join hands in the fight against school-based crime and violence. Over the years, various initiatives driven by government, civil society and business have been directed at addressing this complex phenomenon - each with varying degrees of success. As the Department of Education, we have relentlessly pursued strategies to make our schools safer for all our educators and learners as well as those in support services.

We do this because education can be regarded as the single most important ingredient in combating poverty and in fostering development among the various sectors of our society.

This project draws on many years of local work in the youth crime and violence sectors, ranging from tried and tested community-based initiatives to fairly sophisticated research projects which have helped us understand the nature and scale of the problem better. As a result, schools will now be able to devise strategies that are well-informed and sustainable.

The Department would like to thank the schools and communities who participated in the project during the pilot phases, and we urge all our schools to make use of this instrument. With Hlayiseka, school managers, educators, learners and community members now have the opportunity to work together in a strategic manner to address barriers to education such as crime and violence, and transform our schools into centres of learning, where every learner is able to realize their full potential.

The Department is confident that, with the cooperation and dedication of all concerned, we will stem the tide against crime and violence in our schools and, ultimately, in our communities as well.

Finally, the Department wishes to thank the Centre for Justice and Crime Prevention for this partnership.

HOW TO USE THIS MANUAL

The Hlayiseka Early Warning System: Be Aware – Take Action is designed so that it compliments normal schooling duties and activities. It aims to integrate school safety into the daily activities of the school and contribute to the development of the school community. Therefore, this manual makes the links to existing policy but does not provide detailed guidelines in terms of how to implement the policies, regulations and procedures.

While every care has been taken to consult broadly and to verify the accuracy of information (i.e. legislation, policies etc), no guarantee can be given that this is the case. The reader is encouraged to use these references purely as a guide and to note that policies and regulations evolve continuously and is often subject to individual interpretation.

The manual was originally structured as one composite document but due to its size, it was decided for practical reasons that it should be compartmentalized into four different modules. These modules are interdependent of each other and should therefore not be separated or regarded as independent modules. Great care has been taken to ensure that the manual is an easy to read and understandable tool that can be used by schools without much formal training. However, due to the technical nature of the application of the different tools, an understanding of the systems, procedures and issues underlying school-based crime and violence are necessary. Therefore, schools who have not undergone any formal training in the use of the manual should contact their district or provincial office for assistance before attempting to introduce the Hlayiseka system.

The layout of the different books is briefly outlined below. This book, Book 3, is highlighted.

Book 1: Hlayiseka Early Warning System: How it Works

Book 1 covers a brief history of the partnership and how the Hlayiseka project was developed. It contextualizes and defines school safety within the national Department of Education and the South African legal and policy framework. Various aides such as templates, posters and checklists are provided to give the reader a step by step guide as to how to use the system which includes identifying safety issues working all the way through to developing an action plan for the school.

Book 2: Hlayiseka Early Warning System: Educator Survey and Analysis Framework

The educator survey recognizes that educators are also affected by school-based crime and violence and provides educators with clear strategies on how to engage educators in identifying, responding and evaluating interventions aimed at improving school safety.

Book 3: Hlayiseka Early Warning System: Learner Survey and Analysis Framework

The learner survey provides learners the opportunity to inform the school of how they experience and suggest crime and violence should be dealt with at school. Several survey categories have been created for ease of use and these should by no means be regarded as absolute. The importance of understanding that crime and violence affects boys and girls very differently is highlighted and emphasis is placed on ensuring that interventions should be well informed. Lastly, guidelines on how to create a climate of "openness" in order to foster trust in the school setting is also provided.

Book 4: Hlayiseka Early Warning System: Incident Assessment and Monitoring Progress

The Hlayiseka project is informed by local evidence-based projects and research. Because the Department of Education and communities regard school-based crime and violence as a serious matter, it is important not only to see and feel change but to be able to measure progress and take corrective action in good time. Book four guides the school and districts on how to measure whether their efforts are reaping rewards and how these could be overcome. Over time this data will also enable the Education Department to have a more accurate picture of the state of affairs in schools as far as crime and violence are concerned.

SECTION 1 THE HLAYISEKA EARLY WARNING SYSTEM:
PROCEDURES FOR ADMINISTERING
THE LEARNER SURVEYS

SECTION 1: THE HLAYISEKA EARLY WARNING SYSTEM: PROCEDURES FOR ADMINISTERING THE LEARNER SURVEY'S

1.1 Purpose of the learner surveys

The purpose of the Learner Surveys is to gather information, assess feelings and understand experiences about specific safety incidents that happen at school and on the way to and from school. These safety incidents often act as barriers to effective teaching and learning experiences. Using the surveys will provide information from learners that can help to improve safety at the school, and make the environment safer for teachers to teach and learners to learn.

There are a number of learner surveys that can be used.

The manual does not suggest that your school should administer all of them!
You can select the one that focuses on your safety problems or threats!

It is suggested that you start with "Safety Spots!" as this will provide information on where learners feel safe or unsafe at school, what is happening at your school, what the priority concerns are for the learners and how they feel about reporting incidents.

Based on what the results are of this survey, it will help guide you to:

Be Aware of safety problems or threats to your school and guide you on using another learner survey to provide an understanding of the problem, so that you can Take Action to prevent and manage school safety

The purpose of each of the Learner Survey's is stated below:

Learner survey: Safety Spots!

The Safety Spots! Identifies specific safety threats to the school, and identifies areas on the school where learners feel safe and unsafe. It will also provide information on how confident learners are to report incidents.

Once you have this information, you will be able to prioritise the safety threats or concerns relevant to the school.
Based on the priority, select the most appropriate learner survey to understand the problem in more detail to be able to respond to problems at school.

"It opened our eyes about places where children do not feel safe!"

Eastern Cape School 2006

Learner survey: Dangerous Objects

The weapons survey will provide information on the exposure of learners to weapons on the school property, use of weapons and the reasons why learners carry weapons. Use this survey if it is known that Dangerous Objects are found in the school, or if there are reported incidents of weapons being used or seen in the school. Dangerous objects could also include commonly used items such as pens, scissors, etc. which are not designed to be weapons but can be used to cause harm to others. This survey will provide an understanding of why learners carry weapons, and what action can be taken to manage and prevent dangerous objects being used or brought onto the school.

"It helped us to confiscate guns and report them to the police station"

Limpopo School 2006

Learner survey: Drugs and Alcohol

The drugs and alcohol survey will provide information on the exposure of learners to drugs and alcohol on the school property, the use of drugs and alcohol and the reasons why learners use drugs and alcohol. This survey will guide you in what action can be taken to address the situation.

"Some of our children in our communities use drugs and they are addicted to drugs and alcohol. So we invite social workers and care workers to rehabilitate them."

Eastern Cape School 2006

Learner survey: Bullying

Bullying can create a sense of lack of safety amongst learners, make coming to school an unpleasant experience and have a devastating effect on the self-esteem and self-worth of learners. If the school authorities fail to manage bullying at school, learners could potentially escalate a cycle of violence in the school.

This survey helps you to identify who bullies and how often bullying occurs. It helps you to gauge what sort of impact bullying is having on the emotional well-being of learners, their school attendance and capacity to perform at school. The coping scale helps you to become aware of the types of behaviours you might see if bullying is happening so that educators can intervene. Finally, the survey helps you to identify gaps in your prevention and response plans so that you can start to plug these gaps. By using this survey periodically during the year, once you have intervened in some way, you will be able to see what sort of impact your interventions are having in terms of bullying.

Learner survey: Verbal abuse

By responding early to incidents of a lower order of seriousness, a school can make sure that incidents do not spiral out of control and become increasingly more violent and more difficult to manage.

This survey helps you to identify whether verbal abuse between learners and educators, and how frequently this happens. Verbal abuse can damage relationships between learners and educators.

The survey helps you gauge the impact that this is having on the well-being of learners, their willingness to come to school as a result of such abuse, and its potential interference with their capacity to learn.

The survey helps you to gauge any gaps in your school's response and prevention strategy which can direct your action to plug these gaps.

By re-administering this survey periodically when you have intervened in some way, the survey results can help you to see what impact the intervention is having.

Learner survey: Physical violence

Physical violence at school is of great concern given the harm that may come to learners and the lack of a sense of safety this creates even for learners not directly involved in the fights.

The physical violence survey helps you to know why fights are happening at school. This obviously helps to direct your intervention efforts. Should you find that fights are often linked to drugs or alcohol use, discrimination or bullying, or involve weapons you may also want to get more detailed information about each of these aspects by asking learners to complete some of these other surveys as well.

The frequency questions will help you to know how often fights are taking place or how often physical abuse is occurring between learners and educators with either party being the victim.

The survey helps to assess the kind of impact this is having on school avoidance, attendance or the capacity to pay attention and concentrate whilst at school.

The prevention and response section flags some of the gaps in how your school is currently dealing with physical violence and abuse which can help you refine your strategy.

Once you have intervened, repeating the administration of the surveys with learners will help you to know if what has been put in place has made a difference.

"It helped solve many problems at school including fighting, bullying, vandalism, and sexual harassment"

Limpopo School 2006

Learner survey: Discrimination

Besides being in opposition to the tolerance for and appreciation of our differences written into our constitution, discrimination can damage relationships, cause shame and embarrassment, spark physical violence and a desire for revenge. It is therefore essential that schools foster a culture of tolerance for diversity and intervene quickly and effectively to eliminate elements of discrimination.

This survey highlights the types of discriminating that learners face at the school and how often this is part of their experiences at school.

As with all the other learner surveys, the information from the survey will help you identify the impact that discrimination is having at your school. If learners are reporting that the discrimination is frequent and that this is evoking a great deal of pain especially in the form of shame and anger, there is a high likelihood that this is resulting in physical conflict. You can check this out by asking learners to also complete the physical violence learner survey.

The survey helps to direct your intervention by identifying whether there are things in place to prevent and respond to discrimination.

"It assists educators to get to the reasons behind conflict or misconduct and this is useful for conferencing with the child or parent"

Eastern Cape School 2006

Learner survey: Sexual violence and Harassment

Sexual violence at schools is an issue of grave concern and one that besides causing untold trauma and distress can be an enormous barrier to learners obtaining the education to which the Constitution refers.

The administration of this survey calls for special attention. These are documented in Section 7.8.

This survey MUST NOT be used until these aspects have been put in place.

The survey has the potential to reveal the extent of sexual violence occurring at the school, identify the groups most likely to be the victims and the offenders, and the impact this is having on learners and their attendance and capacity to cope with school.

The coping scale which is part of the survey helps to draw attention to behaviours that might signal that learners are distressed possibly as a result of sexual violence at school. This matter requires immediate attention, professional input and a great deal of care and respect in terms of the response to such incidents having occurred.

The prevention and response scale helps you to put components in place to try and curb sexual violence and offer the necessary support to learners and potentially educators as well.

Learner survey: The journey to and from school

The journey to and from school can be a dangerous event for learners and one which has the potential to serve as a barrier to education.

The survey provides a generalised threat scale which informs you about how significant the journey to and from school might be to learning and school attendance at your school. The survey also highlights types of violence or danger to which learners are exposed. Given that the dangers may differ on the route to and from school and depending on how learners actually get to and from school, the survey allows you to differentiate between mode of transport and the two trips made by the learner.

The learner recommendation section provides learners with an opportunity to generate possible solutions about how to increase their safety to or from school.

1.2 Selecting the learner survey to use

"It will help to identify the signs of risk and potential danger"

Eastern Cape School 2006

1.3 Procedures For Implementing The Learner Surveys

A step by step procedure is stated below on how to implement the learner survey.

IT IS RECOMMENDED THAT THE PRINCIPAL OR SCHOOL SAFETY OFFICER FACILITATES THE PROCESS FOR THE LEARNERS TO COMPLETE THE SURVEY'S. THIS WILL HELP TO BUILD TRUST AND ENCOURAGE LEARNERS TO BE HONEST IN THEIR REPORTING.

1.3.1 Instructions to the facilitator

Preparation

1. Decide which learner survey you are using. If you do not know what the safety problem is or where to begin, start with Safety Spots!
2. Decide which class or grade you are going to ask to complete the survey:

How to select a grade to implement the learner survey?

- Δ Select a grade;
 - Δ Select a particular class in that grade;
 - Δ Try and ensure that the class has boys and girls;
 - Δ Ideally 35 – 50 learners need to be surveyed;
 - Δ Remember not to single out learners, rather include the whole class.
3. Arrange a time for the learners to complete the survey while in class. The survey will take approximately 30 minutes for secondary school learners and 45 minutes for primary school learners.
 4. Photostat one copy for each learner

Upon entering the classroom:

1. Prepare seating arrangements
2. Write on the blackboard the purpose of the learner survey or be ready to share this with the learners.
3. Write on the blackboard or put the poster stating the learner guidelines on the wall. See page 12.

Preparing learners to complete the survey:

1. Thoroughly explain the purpose of the learners surveys and how the information will be used by the school to improve school safety.
2. Explain the learner guidelines which are written up or put the poster on the wall.
3. Hand out the surveys. Make sure everyone has a pen.
4. In the primary school, read through each question and give the options for the learners to answer. Remember not to tell them what box to tick. Move to the next question. You may need to translate the questions into the mother tongue or provide examples for a better understanding
For the High school, learners should be able to answer the questions on their own. If necessary, read each question and allow learners to answer this before moving to the next question.

Learners complete the survey:

1. While learners complete the survey, your role is to:
 - Ensure that learners are not looking at each other's answers
 - Check that learners understand the questions.
 - Remain at the front of the classroom while learners are completing the survey.

Collecting the completed surveys:

1. When you collect them do not put them in the order of where learners sit – mix them up as you get them. It is recommended that learners fold them and place them directly into a box or a plastic bag.

Closure:

1. Thank the learners for completing the survey.
2. Tell them when you will be giving them feedback on the results.
3. Remind them that they can come and talk to you if they want to. It is very important that these conversations are private, this means that you talk to them alone or with a friend they have brought along with them, and that you go into a place where they are comfortable.
4. Ask the learners whether there is anything that they would like to comment on or ask, before you leave the classroom

1.3.2 Instructions to the learners to complete the survey

Copy these instructions onto the classroom board or Photostat a few copies and put them on the wall for learners to read.

PLEASE SEE SURVEY IMPLEMENTATION GUIDELINES ON PAGE 12 (Also available as a poster.)

Facilitator explains the following to the learners:

'Your knowledge about what is happening in this school is very important, as it will help school management to build a safer and better school. We need your help to find out what the safety threats are, and therefore want you to all complete this survey. It's very important that this information is accurate, so please be honest. Maybe you fear that by sharing this information you will be in danger or punished, for this reason this survey is anonymous, this means that your name must not go on the survey and there is no way that we can identify you.'

"The Early Warning System guides the school as to how to handle different kinds of safety issues"

Limpopo School 2006

1.4 How do I mark the learner surveys?

Each of the learner surveys comes with a "Marking Report Template" (this forms the data analysis sheet). This template allows you to write in the results of the survey and will guide you in making sense of the findings. It will help guide you in knowing what ACTION to take as a result of this information.

Use the following procedure to mark the learner surveys:

Step 1: Print out three copies of the marking template. One copy is for the girls, one for the boys and one for the total group.

Step 2: Set aside three hours to complete all three marking templates. You will find out VERY important and interesting information and so you need the time to do justice to this process. You will need a quiet place where you will not be interrupted.

Step 3: Look through the completed learner surveys and discard those surveys which have been "spoiled." "Spoiled" does not mean the learner made a mess or did something wrong, rather it suggests that we have doubts about the procedure that was followed and therefore cannot use the results with any sense of confidence.

The spoiled surveys are those which have several answers to several or most of the items. The child might for example have ticked off "Yes", "No" and "Sometimes" to a number of questions. If this has happened only once or twice on the survey, then retain the survey, simply do not add in the spoiled items. Remember that some questions allow the learner to give more than one answer for example the emotional reaction question enables the learners to endorse as many emotions as are true for him or her. This would not spoil the survey.

Step 4: Separate the surveys into boys and girls. You will score the groups separately initially. Work with the one group (boys or girls) first and then work with the second group of surveys.

Step 5: Review the guidelines questions. Add up all of the "Yes" and then all of the "No" responses to the questions "Have you seen the guidelines for taking part in this survey?" and "Have these guidelines been discussed with you?". Write these totals into the first table found on the marking template. If a learner has not ticked "Yes" or "No" to the question/s, then mark that learner in the "Did Not Answer" box.

If half or more of either group of learners marked "No" to either or both the questions, the survey will need to be re-administered as it seems that the protocol was not followed. You can stop your marking and organise another time for the learners to complete the survey making sure that the person that facilitates the completion of the surveys follows the protocol outlined in Section 6.1. If only a few learners did not complete these questions, continue to mark and include their surveys in your marking.

Step 6: Turn to the last question of the marking template. This question asks you to mark whether learners felt free to be honest when completing the survey. Count up the "Yes" and "No" responses and enter the totals in the relevant boxes. We need to be at least reasonably sure that learners have been honest on the survey. If they state they did not feel free, we fear that they may not have been honest for some reason – possibly that protocol was not followed, perhaps they were singled out and asked to complete the survey individually or in very small groups and they feel afraid that they will be identified and there will be a negative consequence for having been honest. If more than a third of the group stated that they did not feel free to be honest, the information may be suspect. It is important that you find out what is making learners feel unsafe and take action to ensure their sense of safety in completing the surveys. Set up a time to talk to the learners and find out from them what they fear so that some action can be taken. This should be done before any other surveys are completed. Do not use the surveys of those learners that did not feel free. If more than a third of the group felt this way, do not continue marking, address the problem and re-administer the surveys when learners feel safe enough to be honest.

Step 7: Add up the total number of boy and girl surveys you can use. Write in the totals of all the learners in each group who completed the survey and then all the surveys that you can use (that have not been "spoiled") at the top of the marking template as specified.

Step 8: Work through each of the tables on the scoring template, making sure that you enter the totals of the various responses into the relevant boxes.

Step 9: Once you have completed all the tables, highlight or circle in red pen the highest scores throughout the marking template. If you decide you would like to see the information in graph form, please proceed to Step 10. If not proceed to Step 11.

Step 10: At various places in the marking template you will see a graph. It may for example look like the one below. At the bottom on the horizontal or y-axis of the graph, you will see that it lists the various scales or options for the learners responses.

The vertical or x-axis is empty. You will need to write in interval scales.

- If the group of boys or girls include 1-20 learners use an interval scale of 2. In other words, make the first point on the x-axis 1-2, the point above it 3-4, the next point 5-6 etc. See the example below.
- If your group size is between 21-50 use an interval scale of 5. This means 1-5, 6-10, 11-15 and so on.
- If your group size is between 61 -100, use an interval scale of 10. This would mean 1-10, 11-20 etc.

Work only with your "Yes" totals. Let's imagine that you have 20 people in your group, and 5 learners said "Yes" to bullying as reasons why they got into fights; and 14 answered "Yes" to getting into fights over personal property like cell phones. You would then plot these scores on the graph as shown below. You would plot all the "Yes" totals on this graph and link the line up as shown below. The last column has been left blank. If learners have given other reasons why they have got into fights, write what the reason is on the line and plot the total in the same way as you have done before.

Your graph helps you see the high scores very easily.

Step 11: One of the last tables on the marking template provides space for you to list some of the suggestions that learners have about making the school safer. Write down these different responses and the total number of learners who made this recommendation. If learners make similar comments, for example, one says call in the police, one says have security guards – these are similar recommendations that you can group together.

Some of the types of recommendations learners might make include the following:

- Stop drugs and weapons on school property
- Call in police, have security guards around the perimeter
- Put the rules up where everybody can see them
- Offer anger management courses
- Punish, discipline, suspend, arrest those who break the rules
- Call in parents

These are listed simply to help you. You will need to identify the categories that make sense of the recommendations your learners have made.

Step 12: Marker Commentary. You have now found out a lot about this threat/danger at the school. The last text box on the marking template asks you to review what you have found out and to list the things that stand out most for you. This basically summarises the results. The types of comments you can make here include the following:

- What is happening most often that is of concern and requires attention?
- What are some of the reasons for this danger or threat?
- What kind of impact is this having on learners and on their school attendance and learning?
- How is the school responding - .e.g. rules, discipline etc? Which of these are positive responses and which if any are concerning e.g. educators not stopping fights quickly, corporal punishment being used etc.

Step 13: Once you have completed the boy and girl learner surveys, add up the totals for each item and write these into the final marking template that simply includes scores from both the boys and girls. You will see on the graph that you are prompted to plot the boys and girls scores in separate colours – this will help you compare the results across the genders.

Step 14: On this sheet in the “Marker Commentary” box just comment on what is similar and different between the boys and the girls and what the issues are that impact on both boys and girls.

Step 15: Prepare to give feedback on the results at the meeting which has been set up for this purpose.

Step 16: Give the results so that these can stimulate discussion and a plan of action at your school.

1.5 Procedure On Giving Feedback To The Learners

To build a system that respects the information that learners, or educators provide, it is important to give feedback about two things:

- 1. The results or findings of the survey
- 2. What is being done to improve the situation

When giving feedback, it is important to remember the following principles:

Principle 1: Be non judgemental about the results

For example, instead of saying "you stupid learners for carrying weapons" say: "of concern to us is that so many learners feel they need to protect themselves by carrying weapons".

Principle 2: Do not cause greater fear because of the results, particularly if the results indicate high levels of fear amongst the learners.

Procedure for giving learners feedback:

- STEP 1 Remind the learners about the survey they completed.
- STEP 2 Present the findings of the survey by using the "Marking Report Template". Perhaps put the results onto a big piece of paper and make a poster of them.
- STEP 3 Indicate what is going to happen now, in other words what action is now going to be taken as a result of the information.
- STEP 4 Facilitate a discussion about the safety issues to raise awareness with learners about the rules and procedures in place in the school, the consequences of breaking these procedures, and about how incidents can be reported and managed. Encourage learners to become involved in school safety. For example, if the problem being explored is about dangerous weapons or bullying, encourage the learners to develop a learner based campaign at the school to raise awareness to prevent such incidents from occurring.

"It helps the entire community to be able to apply measures that are accepted by the department in combating crime in our schools"

Eastern Cape School 2006

1.6 How do I use the information that comes out of the learner surveys?

Once the learner surveys have been "marked", turn to Book 1 Section 5 of this manual which will guide you in using the information that you have recorded in the marking template.

1.7 Guidelines for learners: how we are going to implement the survey:

- 1. You can only be asked to complete this as a whole class and not called out as an individual to fill it in.
- 2. This can only be completed in the classroom, right now and I will collect them when you are finished.
- 3. I will not walk around the classroom while you are filling the survey in, and therefore ask you to be quiet during the time that we need to complete the survey.
- 4. Make sure there is space between you and the person sitting next to you so that they cannot see what you write.
- 5. I will go through the survey first and read each question. You must choose which box to tick.
- 6. You cannot pass or fail this, and there is no right or wrong answer. What is important is that you are being honest. You cannot get into trouble for giving us the information.
- 7. Please complete this in pen.
- 8. If you make a mistake, you can put a cross through what you have written and mark the correct one.
- 9. We will give you the results of this survey.
- 10. If after completing the survey you feel you need to talk to someone, please talk to me or an educator that you trust.

Make sure you have read the previous section and understand how to administer the survey before you proceed.

Remember you do not need to implement every one of these surveys, use the one that is most relevant to the safety threats or challenges your school faces. If you do not know which one to use, start with Safety Spots!

Q33. People at our school help bullies to change their behaviour by talking to them

Take Note!

Concern should be sparked by learners stating that there are no rules, that there are no repercussions to bullying and no intervention or response to either the bullies or the victims of bullying. It is also very worrying if children are reporting that they cannot report incidents to educators and worse still that reporting makes things worse or makes no difference.

WARNING! CRITERIA FOR USE

To use this survey it is critical that the following is in place:

1. The Principal, School Safety Officer and all educators know what to do if a learner reports sexual violence incidents to them. The procedures are known, and they know how to handle the emotional and psychological well-being of the learner and themselves. In addition, they know where to refer the learner to, such as trauma counselling, victim support, and pastoral care.
2. The School Support Team and the District Support Team is able to respond to reported incidents.
3. Life Orientation classes are able to provide knowledge to learners about positive relationships and address issues of gender or other forms of discrimination.
4. The person who is implementing the survey with the learners is able to provide the care necessary to deal with issues emerging, and is able to role-model appropriate interpersonal relationships that support learners. It is recommended that an external social worker or counsellor is available to interact with learners over the next two weeks, and ideally they should be the person to implement the survey. Do not tell learners this as learners who are seen talking to this person may be "stigmatised" or victimised.

Have these guidelines been discussed with you? ☐ Yes ☐ No

We want to know about sexual violence at your school. Sexual violence is when people say or do things to you of a sexual nature that is against your will (you do not want this to happen) and it makes you feel uncomfortable. Someone calling you sexual names, talking about what they would like to do with you sexually, touching you on private parts of your body or forcing you to touch them on private parts of their body are all examples of sexual harassment.

Please think about your experiences at school this term.

4. Sexual violation or harassment by learners towards educators
Q11. I have touched an educator on their private parts against their permission.
Q12. I have called an educator rude, sexual names

Highlight the highest scores to know what sort of sexual violence we have at our school.

2. Is sexual violence affecting our learners emotionally?

The way sexual violence makes our learners feel
Q13. How sexual violence by other learners makes our learners feel	Painful Feelings		Not Particularly Concerned	Pleasant Feelings
	Angry		Okay	Happy
	Sad			Relaxed
	Afraid			Cool
	Unsafe			Safe
	Ashamed			Excited

Q18. Not wanting to come to school
Q19. Did not come to school because scared of being sexually violent
Q20. Interfering with attention and/or concentration
Total

The greater the numbers of yes responses versus the no responses, the more negative the impact sexual violence is having on learners in the above-mentioned ways.

4. How are our learners trying to cope?

Coping Styles
Q21. I cope by reporting it to a teacher
Q22. I cope by telling my friends
Q23. I cope by running away
Q24. I cope by fighting back
Q25. I cope by carrying a weapon

Total Generalised Threat Score

If yes scores are much higher or even equal to the no scores this signals that most or at least substantial numbers of your learners are feeling unsafe or under threat to or from school.

3. Generalised Sense of Threat Against Mode of Transport Used:

Should you wish to see level of threat per mode of transport used, you will simply need to divide up your surveys into the different mode of transports and get a total YES threat score for each mode of transport. You can then plot these on the graph below. Remember to write in your interval scale.

56-60		Protect self on way to school
51-55		Protect self on way from school
46-50		Protect someone else on way to school
41-45		Protect someone else on way home from school
36-40		Feel need for weapon
31-35		Fear being attacked
