Teacher instruction:
Ask learners to name the members of the family pictured below.
Point out the labels below each picture. Can they read the labels?
Read the sentences on the left. Ask learners to find the matching picture, using the label on the picture to help them.
Then learners draw a line to join each sentence to the correct member of the family.

Match the names

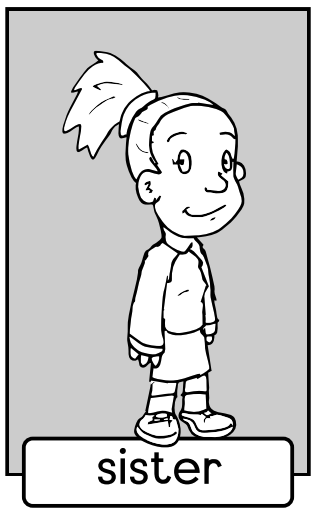

I am the mother.

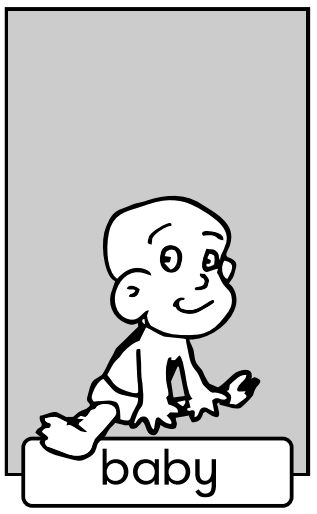

I am the father.

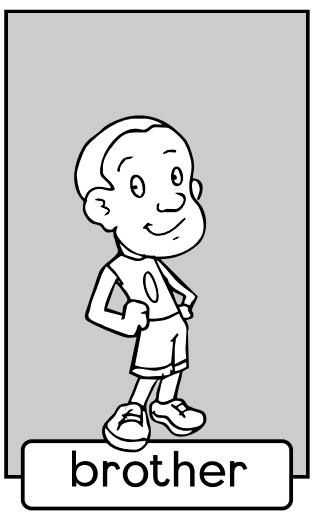

I am the brother.

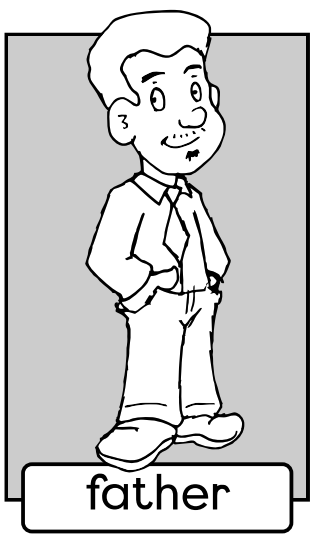

I am the sister.

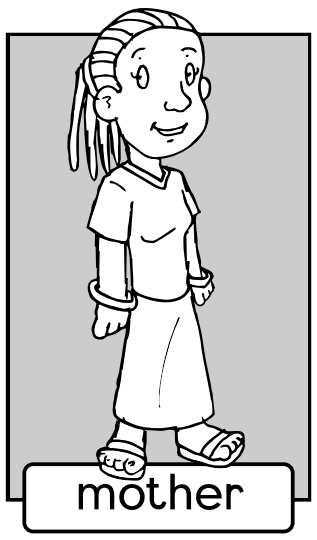

I am the baby.

Teacher instruction:
Ask learners if they can find each of the family members in the mixed-up picture below. Ask them to find the mother.
They must outline her shape using their finger. Now they can colour her in green. Ask learners to find the father. Again, using their finger, they outline his body.
They can colour him in red. Learners do the same with the brother, sister and baby, using different colours.
This is a visual figure-ground activity.
