National Curriculum and Assessment Policy Statement for English First Additional Languages Grades 10 – 12

1.1 Background

The National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12 (NCS) stipulates policy on curriculum and assessment in the schooling sector.

To improve implementation, the National Curriculum Statement was amended, with the amendments coming into effect in January 2012. A single comprehensive Curriculum and Assessment Policy document was developed for each subject to replace Subject Statements, Learning Programme Guidelines and Subject Assessment Guidelines in Grades R - 12.

1.2 Overview

- (a) The National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12 (January 2012) represents a policy statement for learning and teaching in South African schools and comprises the following:
 - (i) National Curriculum and Assessment Policy Statements for each approved school subject;
 - (ii) The policy document, National policy pertaining to the programme and promotion requirements of the National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12; and
 - (iii) The policy document, National Protocol for Assessment Grades R – 12 (January 2012).

- (b) The National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12 (January 2012) replaces the two current national curricula statements, namely the
 - (i) Revised National Curriculum Statement Grades R - 9, Government Gazette No. 23406 of 31 May 2002, and
 - (ii) National Curriculum Statement Grades 10 - 12 Government Gazettes, No. 25545 of 6 October 2003 and No. 27594 of 17 May 2005.

- (c) The national curriculum statements contemplated in subparagraphs (a) and (b) comprise the following policy documents which will be incrementally repealed by the National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12 (January 2012) during the period 2012-2014:

- (i) The Learning Area/Subject Statements, Learning Programme Guidelines and Subject Assessment Guidelines for Grades R - 9 and Grades 10 – 12;
 - (ii) The policy document, National Policy on assessment and qualifications for schools in the General Education and Training Band d, promulgated in Government Notice No. 124 in Government Gazette No. 29626 of 12 February 2007;
 - (iii) The policy document, the National Senior Certificate: A qualification at Level 4 on the National Qualifications Framework (NQF), promulgated in Government Gazette No.27819 of 20 July 2005;
 - (iv) The policy document, An addendum to the policy document, the National Senior Certificate: A qualification at Level 4 on the National Qualifications Framework (NQF), regarding learners with special needs, published in Government Gazette, No.29466 of 11 December 2006, is incorporated in the policy document, National policy pertaining to the programme and promotion requirements of the National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12; and
 - (v) The policy document, An addendum to the policy document, the National Senior Certificate: A qualification at Level 4 on the National Qualifications Framework (NQF), regarding the National Protocol for Assessment (Grades R – 12), promulgated in Government Notice No.1267 in Government Gazette No. 29467 of 11 December 2006.
- (c) The policy document, National policy pertaining to the programme and promotion requirements of the National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12, and the sections on the Curriculum and Assessment Policy as contemplated in Chapters 2, 3 and 4 of this document constitute the norms and standards of the National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12. It will therefore, in terms of section 6A of the South African Schools Act, 1996 (Act No. 84 of 1996), form the basis for the Minister of Basic Education to determine minimum outcomes and standards, as well as the processes and procedures for the assessment of learner achievement to be applicable to public and independent schools.

1.3 General aims of the South African Curriculum

- (a) The National Curriculum Statement Grades R - 12 gives expression to the knowledge, skills and values worth learning in South African schools. This curriculum aims to ensure that children acquire and apply knowledge and skills in ways that are meaningful to their own lives. In this regard, the curriculum promotes knowledge in local contexts, while being sensitive to global imperatives.

(b) The National Curriculum Statement Grades R - 12 serves the purposes of:

- equipping learners, irrespective of their socio-economic background, race, gender, physical ability or intellectual ability, with the knowledge, skills and values necessary for self-fulfilment, and meaningful participation in society as citizens of a free country;
- providing access to higher education;
- facilitating the transition of learners from education institutions to the workplace; and
- providing employers with a sufficient profile of a learner's competences.

(c) The National Curriculum Statement Grades R - 12 is based on the following principles:

- Social transformation: ensuring that the educational imbalances of the past are redressed, and that equal educational opportunities are provided for all sections of the population;
- Active and critical learning: encouraging an active and critical approach to learning, rather than rote and uncritical learning of given truths;
- High knowledge and high skills: the minimum standards of knowledge and skills to be achieved at each grade are specified and set high, achievable standards in all subjects;
- Progression: content and context of each grade shows progression from simple to complex;
- Human rights, inclusivity, environmental and social justice: infusing the principles and practices of social and environmental justice and human rights as defined in the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa. The National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12 is sensitive to issues of diversity such as poverty, inequality, race, gender, language, age, disability and other factors;
- Valuing indigenous knowledge systems: acknowledging the rich history and heritage of this country as important contributors to nurturing the values contained in the Constitution; and
- Credibility, quality and efficiency: providing an education that is comparable in quality, breadth and depth to those of other countries.

(d) The National Curriculum Statement Grades R - 12 aims to produce learners that are able to:

- identify and solve problems and make decisions using critical and creative thinking;
- work effectively as individuals and with others as members of a team;
- organise and manage themselves and their activities responsibly and effectively;

- collect, analyse, organise and critically evaluate information;
 - communicate effectively using visual, symbolic and/or language skills in various modes;
 - use science and technology effectively and critically showing responsibility towards the environment and the health of others; and
 - demonstrate an understanding of the world as a set of related systems by recognising that problem solving contexts do not exist in isolation.
- (e) Inclusivity should become a central part of the organisation, planning and teaching at each school. This can only happen if all teachers have a sound understanding of how to recognise and address barriers to learning, and how to plan for diversity.

The key to managing inclusivity is ensuring that barriers are identified and addressed by all the relevant support structures within the school community, including teachers, District-Based Support Teams, Institutional-Level Support Teams, parents and Special Schools as Resource Centres. To address barriers in the classroom, teachers should use various curriculum differentiation strategies such as those included in the Department of Basic Education's Guidelines for Inclusive Teaching and Learning (2010).

1.4 Time Allocation

1.4.1 Foundation Phase

(a) The instructional time in the Foundation Phase is as follows:

SUBJECT	GRADE R (HOURS)	GRADES 1-2 (HOURS)	GRADE 3 (HOURS)
Home Language	10	7/8	7/8
First Additional Language		2/3	3/4
Mathematics	7	7	7
Life Skills	6	6	7
▪ Beginning Knowledge	(1)	(1)	(2)
• Creative Arts	(2)	(2)	(2)
• Physical Education	(2)	(2)	(2)
• Personal and Social Well-being	(1)	(1)	(1)
TOTAL	23	23	25

(b) Instructional time for Grades R, 1 and 2 is 23 hours and for Grade 3 is 25 hours.

- (c) Ten hours are allocated for languages in Grades R-2 and 11 hours in Grade 3. A maximum of 8 hours and a minimum of 7 hours are allocated for Home Language and a minimum of 2 hours and a maximum of 3 hours for Additional Language in Grades R – 2. In Grade 3 a maximum of 8 hours and a minimum of 7 hours are allocated for Home Language and a minimum of 3 hours and a maximum of 4 hours for First Additional Language.
- (d) In Life Skills Beginning Knowledge is allocated 1 hour in Grades R – 2 and 2 hours as indicated by the hours in brackets for Grade 3.

1.4.2 Intermediate Phase

(a) The instructional time in the Intermediate Phase is as follows:

SUBJECT	HOURS
Home Language	6
First Additional Language	5
Mathematics	6
Natural Science and Technology	3,5
Social Sciences	3
Life Skills	4
▪ Creative Arts	(1,5)
▪ Physical Education	(1)
▪ Personal and Social Well-being	(1,5)
TOTAL	27,5

1.4.3 Senior Phase

(a) The instructional time in the Senior Phase is as follows:

SUBJECT	HOURS
Home Language	5
First Additional Language	4
Mathematics	4,5
Natural Science	3
Social Sciences	3
Technology	2
Economic Management Sciences	2
Life Orientation	2

Arts and Culture	2
TOTAL	27,5

1.4.4 Grades 10-12

(a) The instructional time in Grades 10-12 is as follows:

Subject	Time allocation per week (hours)
I. Home Language	4.5
II. First Additional Language	4.5
III. Mathematics	4.5
IV. Life Orientation	2
V. A minimum of any three subjects selected from Group B Annexure B, Tables B1-B8 of the policy document, National policy pertaining to the programme and promotion requirements of the National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12 , subject to the provisos stipulated in paragraph 28 of the said policy document.	12 (3x4h)

The allocated time per week may be utilised only for the minimum required NCS subjects as specified above, and may not be used for any additional subjects added to the list of minimum subjects. Should a learner wish to offer additional subjects, additional time must be allocated for the offering of these subjects.

SECTION 2

Introducing the Languages

2.1 Languages in the National Curriculum and Assessment Policy Statement

Language is a tool for thought and communication. It is also a cultural and aesthetic means commonly shared among a people to make better sense of the world they live in. Learning to use language effectively enables learners to acquire knowledge, to express their identity, feelings and ideas, to interact with others, and to manage their world. It also provides learners with a rich, powerful and deeply rooted set of images and ideas that can be used to make their world other than it is; better than it is; clearer than it is. It is through language that cultural diversity and social relations are expressed and constructed, and it is through language that such constructions can be altered, broadened and refined.

Language levels

Language learning in Grades 10 – 12 includes all the official languages in South Africa, namely, Afrikaans, English, isiNdebele, isiXhosa, isiZulu, Sepedi (Sesotho sa Leboa), Sesotho, Setswana, Siswati, Tshivenda, Xitsonga – as well as Non-Official Languages. These languages can be offered at different language levels.

Home Language is the language first acquired by learners while First Additional language is the language learnt in addition to one's Home Language. Many South African schools do not offer the home languages of some or all of the enrolled learners but rather have one or two languages offered at Home Language level. As a result, the names Home Language and First Additional Language refer to the proficiency levels at which the language is offered, and not the native (Home) or acquired (as in the Additional) languages. For the purposes of this policy, any reference to Home Language should be understood to refer to the level and not the language itself.

Home Language level provides for language proficiency that reflects the basic interpersonal communication skills required in social situations and the cognitive academic skills essential for learning across the curriculum. Emphasis is placed on the teaching of the listening, speaking, reading and writing skills at this language level. This level also provides learners with a literary, aesthetic and imaginative ability that will provide them with the ability to recreate, imagine and empower their understandings of the world they live in. However, the emphasis and marks allocated for reading and writing from Grades 7 onwards are greater than those for speaking and listening because the demands on learners' literacy increase as they prepare for further and higher education and the world of work.

The First Additional Language level assumes that learners do not necessarily have any knowledge of the language when they arrive at school. The focus in the first few years of school is on developing learners' ability to understand and speak the language – basic interpersonal communication skills. In Grades 2 and 3 learners start to build literacy on this oral foundation. They also apply the literacy skills they have already learned in their Home Language.

In the Intermediate and Senior Phases, learners continue to strengthen their listening, speaking, reading and writing skills. At this stage the majority of children are learning through the medium of their First Additional Language, English, and should be getting more exposure to it. Greater emphasis is therefore given to using the First Additional Language for the purposes of thinking and reasoning. This enables learners to develop their cognitive academic skills, which they need to study subjects like Science in English. They also engage more with literary texts and begin to develop aesthetic and imaginative ability in their Additional Language.

By the time learners enter Grade 10, they should be reasonably proficient in their First Additional Language with regard to both interpersonal and cognitive academic skills. However, the reality is that many learners still cannot communicate well in their Additional Language at this stage. The challenge in Grades 10 – 12, therefore, is to provide support for these learners at the same time as providing a curriculum that enables learners to meet the standards required in Grade 12. These standards must be such that learners can use their additional language at a high level of proficiency to prepare them for further or higher education or the world of work.

2.2 Specific aims of learning Additional Languages

Learning a First Additional Language should enable learners to:

- acquire the language skills necessary to communicate accurately and appropriately taking into account audience, purpose and context;

- use their Additional Language for academic learning across the curriculum;
- listen, speak, read/view and write/present the language with confidence and enjoyment. These skills and attitudes form the basis for lifelong learning;
- express and justify, orally and in writing, their own ideas, views and emotions confidently in order to become independent and analytical thinkers;
- use their Additional Language and their imagination to find out more about themselves and the world around them. This will enable them to express their experiences and findings about the world orally and in writing;
- use their Additional Language to access and manage information for learning across the curriculum and in a wide range of other contexts. Information literacy is a vital skill in the ‘information age’ and forms the basis for lifelong learning;
- use their Additional Language as a means of critical and creative thinking; for expressing their opinions on ethical issues and values; for interacting critically with a wide range of texts; for challenging the perspectives, values and power relations embedded in texts; and for reading texts for various purposes, such as enjoyment, research, critique;

2.3. Overview of the language curriculum

The curriculum is organised according to the following skills, content and strategies.

2.4 Teaching the First Additional Language

In order to learn an additional language well, one needs as much exposure to it as possible. Teachers should therefore ensure that learners listen to and read the Additional Language for a wide range of purposes. They need opportunities to listen to the Additional Language for information and comprehension (e.g. the news) and for pleasure (e.g. a story or song). Even more important, they need opportunities to read and view the Additional Language for information (e.g. an explanation with an accompanying diagram), pleasure (e.g. a magazine) and literary appreciation (e.g. a poem). Research shows that the best way to develop a wide vocabulary is through extensive reading. However, it is very important that oral, written and visual texts are at the right level for learners. If the texts are too difficult, learners will become discouraged and they will not learn anything; if they are too easy, there will be no challenge and little learning will take place. An important role of the language teacher is to match the level of text to the level of the learner. Throughout the FET phase, learners should be listening to and reading progressively more challenging texts.

Learners also need to use their Additional Language frequently for a range of purposes. They need opportunities to speak the Additional Language for interpersonal reasons (e.g. a conversation), to develop their creativity (e.g. performing a poem, role playing, etc.), to develop cognitive academic skills (e.g. taking part in a debate) and to prepare for the workplace (e.g. taking part in an interview). Even more importantly in the FET phase, learners need opportunities to write for interpersonal reasons (e.g. a letter), to develop their imaginative abilities (e.g. a story), to develop cognitive academic skills (e.g. an argumentative essay) and to prepare for the world of work (e.g. writing a letter of application and compiling a relevant curriculum vitae). Learners need to understand the purpose for which they are writing and to develop a sense of audience. Throughout the FET phase, they should be writing progressively more challenging texts. It is necessary that learners receive regular and timely feedback on their writing so that they know where and how to improve. An important role of the language teacher is to provide high-quality feedback, which is at the heart of good assessment.

Teachers should develop learners' reading and writing strategies so that they can become independent and lifelong readers and writers. For example, they can teach learners to skim and scan; they can ask questions that develop learners' higher-order reading skills; they can teach learners the process of writing; they can teach critical language awareness; they can provide feedback that enables learners to get a sense of their own strengths and weaknesses and an understanding of how to move forward.

Learners also need to know the basics of language: grammar, vocabulary, spelling and punctuation. Generally, teachers will deal with these aspects of language in context. For example, they can make learners aware of the structure and features of an explanation (it is written in the present tense; the passive may be used; causal connectives such as 'because' and 'so' may be used). However, there is also a place for direct/explicit teaching of the basics, for example if learners are constantly making mistakes with a particular aspect of grammar, it may be necessary to teach this directly and give learners the opportunity to practise it. It is important to remember that the role of grammar teaching is to support correct language use, and that it has little value if taught as decontextualised rules.

When planning a two-week unit of lessons, teachers should integrate language skills, together with the basics of language. They should choose a text type and a topic that will interest learners; little learning can be achieved if learners are not engaged and motivated. For example, a topic for an argumentative essay might be 'Should education be free?' Teachers could introduce the topic through listening and/or reading, building the language and vocabulary knowledge necessary for speaking. For example, learners could read articles presenting different views about ‘free education’ and they could then debate the issue. Once learners are familiar with the language necessary for this topic, they could do a writing activity, such as an argumentative essay. This would provide further opportunities for working with language. Teachers should provide feedback throughout the process and an appropriate assessment activity at the end.

In Grades 10 – 12, it is important that:

- there is a strong focus on reading and writing;
- there is continued support for the development of vocabulary, sentence and paragraph construction, and grammar;
- learners work with a range of texts and that these texts increase in difficulty as they move through the grades;
- learners are well prepared for using their Additional Language as the language of learning and teaching (LoLT);
- learners are well prepared for the examination at the end of Grade 12.

Listening and speaking

The ability to listen and speak effectively is essential to interpersonal relations and successful learning across the curriculum. Through focused listening activities, teachers should help learners to develop strategies that will enable them to:

- understand and use information presented orally, for example listening and labelling a diagram;
- record information, for example by taking notes;
- participate orally in constructing knowledge, solving problems, and expressing emotions and opinions;
- understand the views, opinions, emotions and creative output of others;
- where necessary, challenge the perspectives of others and explore how values and power relationships are expressed orally.

In Grades 10 – 12 learners will build on oral skills acquired in earlier grades and become increasingly confident and responsive. Their sense of what is appropriate will increase.

Where learners are not able to interact with speakers of the language, they need to practise a variety of informal and formal spoken forms in the classroom. The teacher will need to build the vocabulary and language structures necessary for learners to do this. Speaking can be a source of anxiety for Additional Language speakers so classroom environments should be supportive and relaxed. Relevant, interesting topics can help to overcome inhibition. Teaching approaches which encourage learners to participate through asking and answering questions and discussion will help to make learners more comfortable with formal speaking tasks and activities.

The speaking/listening programme should be integrated with other skills. Learners should be exposed to new vocabulary, structures and text types before they can produce them. They should listen to or read texts that model the structures and vocabulary they will be expected to use when speaking and writing, and they need opportunities for practice.

In Grades 10 – 12, teachers should approach listening as a three-phase activity:

- Pre-listening: This prepares learners for listening to an oral text in their Additional Language. For example, the teacher could ask a general, focusing question in advance which the learners must answer after they have listened to the text for the first time.
- During listening: It is good practice for the teacher to read (or play) a listening text several times, asking different questions each time. It is helpful to move from questions which enable learners to understand the general meaning of the text to more specific questions that require a more detailed understanding of the text. By doing this, the teacher is helping learners to develop listening strategies.
- Post-listening: Learners answer further questions, review notes, use information (e.g. to label a diagram, to prepare a speech), summarise, draw inferences and conclusions, evaluate and respond critically.

Speaking happens informally in the classroom, for example, in group work. Learners also need opportunities to practise the kind of informal conversations they might not normally have in the classroom. Teachers should provide instruction in formal speaking and presenting, for example a prepared or an unprepared speech, reading aloud, an interview, a debate, etc. This will often be a two-step process:

- Planning, researching and organising ideas and information

- Presenting: demonstrating an awareness of audience and context; the use of appropriate and accurate language structures and conventions; clear delivery; use of appropriate verbal and non-verbal techniques, etc.

Reading and Viewing

By Grade 10 learners should be confident, independent readers in their First Additional Language, selecting texts for their own interests and tastes. However, this may not be the case for all learners. At the start of the year, it is necessary, therefore, to assess learners' reading comprehension and to plan teaching accordingly.

In Grades 10 – 12 teachers should approach reading as a three-phase activity:

- Pre-reading: This prepares learners for reading a text in their Additional Language. For example, learners could be encouraged to make predictions about the text based on the title. This will activate their prior knowledge and help them to make sense of the text when they begin to read it.
- Reading: This involves close reading of the text. Learners will answer questions about the meaning of the text. They will be asked to consider how word choice, use of language, imagery, etc. affect the meaning of the text. They will be expected to use comprehension strategies such as inferencing.
- Post-reading: At this stage learners view and assess the text as a whole. They synthesise (or pull together) ideas in the text, summarise ideas, compare and contrast different aspects of the text, evaluate the text, draw conclusions and express their own opinions. There could be follow-up activities such as vocabulary work based on the text.

The texts used for reading might also be used as models for writing. For example, learners might read a discussion/discursive text on the topic, 'Alcohol causes a great deal of human misery – Should it be banned?' They could read the text, using the three-stage approach. In the Reading Stage, they could analyse the structure and language features of the text type. In the Writing lesson, they could write a discussion/discursive text of their own on a different topic.

In this curriculum there are three different focuses for reading:

First, learners will practise intensive reading of short texts for comprehension, note-taking, summary and critical language awareness. These texts are drawn from a wide range of written and visual sources and may include extracts from novels, short stories and articles, advertisements, graphs, cartoons, photographs or film clips. For written texts learners should practise and use the skills of skimming, scanning and intensive reading. Special attention may be drawn to language features of these texts for an integrated study of language. For example, if an advice column is chosen for intensive reading the integrated language item may be modal verbs (e.g. should, must, can).

Secondly, learners will study setworks, with a focus on the aesthetic and cultural qualities of texts such as poems, plays, films, novels and short stories. Setwork study allows learners to engage creatively with important cultural and aesthetic texts and to explore their own reality through this engagement. Setwork study will introduce learners to the meta-language/ technical terms used in literary criticism, e.g. “plot” and “character” for novels or “long shot” for film. Meta-language enables learners to explore their understanding of the text more deeply and should not be learned for its own sake. Meta-language must relate closely to the text being studied, for example one would choose a novel rather than a poem to discuss “plot”. In Grades 10 – 12 learners should study a range of literary texts. For example, a teacher could choose a range of poems over the two years (Grades 10 and 11), short stories from different countries, novels and plays from different periods or films by different directors. In Grade 12 learners will study the nationally prescribed setwork.

NB: Film study may be offered for enrichment in Grades 10 and 11. Schools choosing this option must be able to provide the technology required for studying film and audio-visual text.

Thirdly, learners should be involved in extensive reading of a variety of written and visual texts. They should know how to access classroom, school or public libraries and films and the internet where available. Teachers should guide learners in selecting texts of the right level which are interesting and accessible. Library visits, book clubs, classroom libraries, donated or subscribed magazines and newspapers in the classroom support this aspect of the reading programme.

Writing and presenting

At the start of the year, it is necessary to assess learners' writing. Teachers may find that they need to review some of the basics of writing, for example, paragraph structure, sentence structure and punctuation. It may be necessary to continue giving learners guidance and practice throughout the year.

A first step in teaching extended writing is to select an appropriate text type. Teachers should choose text types at an appropriate level of challenge for the grades they are teaching. Certain text types are suitable for writing short texts, for example, a letter or an email. Other text types, such as persuasive or argumentative essays, are more suitable when longer texts are required. Learners should write a range of texts for different purposes: academic, creative, interpersonal and work-related. Teachers should make sure that they cover text types that are important in other subjects, for example, information reports, explanations, and persuasive and argumentative essays.

Teachers then need to plan how to teach the selected text type. This would involve steps such as the following:

- introducing the topic, for example, 'Don't do drugs!' for a persuasive essay; this will involve introducing new vocabulary suitable to the topic and level;
- looking at an example of a persuasive essay on a different topic and analysing its structure and language features;
- discussing the purpose, audience and context which determine the style or register;
- discussing the criteria the teacher and learners would use to assess a persuasive essay;
- brainstorming and doing some research on the topic; this is another opportunity to build vocabulary;
- drafting the essay and getting feedback from peers and/or the teacher;
- revising, editing and proofreading the essay; checking and correcting grammar, spelling and punctuation.

In order to write well, learners need knowledge of different text types, a wide vocabulary, a good control of English grammar, spelling and punctuation; and a critical understanding of the potential effects of their writing.

Language structures and conventions

The skills of listening, speaking, reading and writing cannot be put into practice without a sound knowledge of language structure and practice in using it. Learners also need a wide vocabulary, which is perhaps the single most important factor enabling a person to communicate well in an additional language. A wide vocabulary is essential for all the language skills, but especially for reading and writing. The most effective way for learners to improve their grammar and increase their vocabulary is by doing lots and lots of reading inside and outside of the classroom. As we have seen above, teachers need to find a place for extensive reading in the First Additional Language programme.

Grammar and vocabulary also need to be taught, both in context and in activities with a specific focus on these aspects of language. They can be taught in context as part of reading comprehension lessons, where there is an intensive focus on a short passage. Some of the questions which the teacher asks will focus on language use in the text. This gives the teacher and learners an opportunity to explore how grammar and language is used and to what effect. Grammar and vocabulary can also be taught in the context of writing. For example, when the class analyses a text type or genre in preparation for writing, they will look at its structure and features. When discussing the features, they will look at the choice of vocabulary and grammar, in other words, at the register used. When learners proof-read and edit their writing, they should also draw on their knowledge of grammar and vocabulary. The teacher will need to provide feedback to assist them in this process.

There should also be activities that focus specifically on grammar and vocabulary as part of a systematic programme and also in response to common errors identified by the teacher. Grammar should be taught purposefully; attention should be given to meaning as well as form. For example, the passive is used when the object is more important than the subject and you want to make it the topic of a sentence, or when the actor is unknown, unimportant or not worth mentioning, for example, ‘Gold was mined on the Witwatersrand’ or ‘The store was robbed last night.’ Punctuation should also be taught in relation to sentence structure.

Learners should be encouraged to use both monolingual and bilingual dictionaries. They should be encouraged to write new words they encounter in a vocabulary book and to memorise their spelling and meanings. There should be regular revision of vocabulary and spelling in the form of tests, quizzes and “spelling bees”.

Language teaching approaches

The approaches to teaching language in these documents are text-based, communicative, integrated and process oriented.

The text-based approach and the communicative approach are both dependent on the continuous use and production of texts.

A text-based approach teaches learners to become competent, confident and critical readers, writers, viewers, and designers of texts. It involves listening to, reading, viewing, and analysing texts to understand how they are produced and what their effects are. Through this critical interaction, learners develop the ability to evaluate texts. Authentic texts are the main source of content and context for the communicative, integrated learning and teaching of languages. The text-based approach also involves producing different kinds of texts for particular purposes and audiences. This approach is informed by an understanding of how texts are constructed.

A communicative approach suggests that when learning a language a learner should have a great deal of exposure to the target language and many opportunities to practise or produce the language. Learners learn to read by doing a great deal of reading and learn to write by doing much writing.

The process approach is used when learners read and produce oral and written texts. The learners engage in different stages of the listening, speaking, reading, and writing processes. They must think of the audience and the purpose during these processes. This will enable them to communicate and express their thoughts in a natural way. For example, the teaching of writing does not focus on the product only but also focuses on the purpose and process of writing. During process writing, learners are taught how to generate ideas, to think about the purpose and audience, to write drafts, to edit their work, and to present a written product that communicates their thoughts.

Approaches to teaching literature

The main reason for reading literature in the classroom is to develop in learners a sensitivity to a special use of language that is more refined, literary, figurative, symbolic, and deeply meaningful than much of what else they may read. While most literary texts are forms of entertainment, amusement, or revelation, serious writers create novels, plays, and poems because they have ideas, thoughts, and issues, and principles, ideologies, and beliefs that they most want to share with or reveal to their prospective readers. Their imaginative use of language is an added method of revealing, reinforcing, and highlighting their ideas.

The teaching of literature is never easy, but it is impossible without personal, thoughtful, and honest interpretations and comments from the learners themselves. Unless they learn how to understand a literary text on their own, they will not have learned much. Teachers often need to restrain their own interpretations and ideas of literary texts, and allow as much learner participation as is reasonable. Interpretation is not about right or wrong. It is about searching for what is meaningful to the reader.

The best ways to approach the teaching of literature would involve some or all of the following:

- Make every attempt to read as much of the text in class as possible without breaking for any other activity. This should not take more than two weeks. It is essential that learners have a clear idea of what is going on at the most basic level of the text. Spending too long on reading a text is deleterious to a clear understanding of narrative line and plot. Some classes can read texts without such support. That is to be encouraged. Poetry should be taught, not poems. Read as many as possible in class, and ensure that learners write poems as well.
- Literary interpretation is essentially a university-level activity, and learners in this phase do not have to learn this advanced level of interpretation. However, the whole purpose of teaching literary texts is to show learners how their Home Language can be used with subtlety, intelligence, imagination, and flair. This means taking a close look at how text is being created, manipulated, and re-arranged to clarify and emphasise what is being expressed. Such work might involve examining the presence or absence of imagery; what kind of imagery is being selected by the writer and why; sentence structures and paragraphing, or the layout of poems; choice of words, continuing motifs through the text; the use of symbol, sound, and colour where appropriate. Most of this work should be text-based, but line-by-line analysis of any text is destructive to its subtlety.
- Creative writing should be closely attached to the study of any literary text. Writing activities that demand a close understanding of the text being read can prove very helpful in reaching more creative levels of appreciation on the part of the learners. Class discussions can be fruitful as long as everyone is involved. But class discussions that lead to written work activities serve a clearer purpose and benefit both.
- Finally, it is important to point out that literature is not about right answers. A whole text means something, not just bits and pieces of it; a good reading of a text incorporates the whole text in interpretative, creative, personal, and exploratory practices.

2.5 Time allocation in the curriculum

The First Additional Language curriculum is based on a 40-week academic year with an allocation of 4.5 hours per week. Language is taught in two-week cycles of 9 hours. Timetabling should make provision for one double period per week, to allow for extended activities such as writing to be completed.

In a two-week cycle the following time allocation for the different language skills is suggested:

Skills	Time Allocation per Two-week Cycle (Hours)	%
Listening & Speaking	1	10
Reading & Viewing: Comprehension & Literature	4	45
Writing & Presenting	3	35
Language structures and conventions (this is also integrated into the 4 skills)	1	10

The time allocation for normal teaching/learning in Grade 10 and 11 is 36 weeks. Four weeks is set aside for examination purposes. In Grade 12 there are 30 weeks for normal teaching/learning and ten weeks for examinations.

2.6 Requirements to offer First Additional Language as a subject

- Each learner should have:
 - (a) An approved language textbook
 - (b) Two (2) of the following approved/prescribed literary genres:

Genre	Grades 10 – 12
Novel	√
Short stories	√
Drama	√
Poetry	√

- (c) A dictionary which also provide information and guidance on language; if possible, learners should also have a bilingual dictionary (e.g. isiZulu/English).
- (d) Media material: a collection of newspapers and magazines.

(e) Access to reading material in a class, school and/or public library for extensive reading

• The teacher should have:

(a) A Curriculum and Assessment Policy Statement

(b) Language in Education Policy (LiEP)

(c) The language textbook used by learners and other textbooks for resource purposes in addition to the approved text

(d) Two (2) of the following approved/prescribed literary genres:

Genre	Grade 10 – 12
Novel	√
Short stories	√
Drama	√
Poetry	√

(e) Dictionaries, both monolingual and bilingual, and a thesaurus

(f) A reference textbook for grammar

(g) Media material: A variety of newspapers, magazines, brochures and flyers.

(h) Access to reading material in a class, school and/or public library in order to guide learners' extensive reading

SECTION 3

Content and Teaching Plans for Language Skills

This section is divided into TWO components, the Skills, Content and Strategies in the Languages curriculum, and the Teaching Plans.

3.1 Listening and Speaking

Listening and speaking are different but co-dependent skills. Both are continually present informally in the classroom as learners receive and discuss information. Formal listening and speaking of special forms, e.g. debate, need focused instruction. Formal and informal listening and speaking are integrated with reading, writing and language practice, and speaking may give written text an oral form (e.g. reading aloud).

LISTENING

Listening process

Listening instruction will usually involve working through elements of the listening process. This is a three-phase activity which models independent listening strategies for decoding and understanding speech and other audio forms. Not every step of the process will be used on every occasion. For example, if learners are listening to a recorded explanation they will need to do a pre-reading activity which alerts them to the need for focused listening and helps them make associations with their own experience. Listening activities would help them recall details and evaluate the message. Post-reading might involve learners in responding to what they have heard through discussion.

Listening comprehension exercises and assessment give an opportunity to teach learners how to listen.

Listening process

1. Pre-listening introduces learners to the listening situation. It allows them to activate their previous knowledge of the topic, and prepare for listening.

- Stimulate /activate background knowledge before listening
- Predict what text may be about from title
- Deal with any key vocabulary that learners may not be familiar with
- Teacher may set a pre-listening question to focus learners' attention
- Learners should be physically prepared with, for example, pencil and pad for note taking

2. During Listening learners pay attention for various purposes:

(Note that it is good practice for learners to listen to a text several times, focusing on a different aspect each time.)

2.1 Listen for specific information

- Search for meaning; identify main and supporting ideas
- Constantly check understanding of message by making connections, making and confirming predictions, making inferences, evaluating, and reflecting
- Make meaningful notes; outline, map, categorise, summarise, paraphrase, retell, explain what has been said
- Be aware of speaker/presenters' body language and other visual cues

2.2 Listen for critical analysis and evaluation

- Distinguish between facts and opinions
- Interpret and evaluate the tone of the message
- Identify and interpret any emotive and manipulative language used
- Respond critically to the text

2.3 Listen for interaction

- Use turn-taking conventions in conversations or group work
- Ask questions to sustain communication
- Respond to language, gestures, eye contact and body language
- Signal interest and attention appropriately through expression, posture etc.
- Use the appropriate conventions to be polite and show respect for others

2.4 Listen for appreciation

- Respond in communication situations
- Use turn-taking conventions in conversation
- Ask questions to sustain communication
- Respond to language, gestures, eye contact and body language
- Show understanding of the relationship between language and culture by showing respect for cultural conventions
- Respond to the aesthetic qualities of oral text, e.g. rhythm, pace, sound effects, imagery, gestures accompanying the text

3. Post-listening follows up on the listening experience. Learners

- answer questions;
- review notes;
- summarise;
- transfer information from oral to written mode, e.g. use information to label a diagram;
- synthesise new information with prior knowledge;
- draw conclusions; evaluate; give own opinion; respond critically.

SPEAKING

Speaking instruction needs to recognise a wide range of informal and formal speaking situations, from casual conversation to formal researched debate and presentation. Speaking clearly, fluently, coherently, confidently and appropriately should be the aim of teaching speaking.

Informal speaking and group work (see “Features and conventions of oral communication” below)

- Initiate and sustain conversations, e.g. by filling in gaps and encouraging the speaker
- Ask and respond to questions to sustain communication
- Use turn-taking conventions
- Share ideas and experiences
- Clarify meaning where appropriate
- Give and justify opinion; negotiate a position
- Promote the aims of the group work by taking on leadership and other roles
- Respond to language, gestures, eye contact and body language
- Signal interest and attention appropriately through expression, posture and gesture

Formal speaking and presenting

The formal speaking process will usually involve 1) planning, researching and organising and 2) practising and presenting. Formal practising and presentation forms may involve a written version.

1. Planning, researching and organising

Learners demonstrate planning, researching and organising skills for oral presentation. They

- use resources and reference materials to find and select information;
- make notes and summaries from a range of relevant sources;
- include a range of facts and examples according to task requirements;
- use an effective introduction and conclusion, e.g. by using literary quotations, references to authoritative sources, anecdotes;
- develop ideas and argument: arrange facts, examples etc. logically;

- in argument, offer appropriate types of proof, e.g. statistics, testimony, specific instances;
- use objects, audio and/or visual aids to enhance the appeal and accuracy of presentations.

2. Practising and presenting

Learners demonstrate practising and oral presentation skills. They

- Use appropriate forms of address
- Show an awareness of audience: rhetorical questions, repetition, pause
- Show an awareness of situation: formal, informal and colloquial speech or slang
- Express and support own opinion in discussion and interaction
- Use correct language structures and conventions
- Use appropriate verbal and non-verbal techniques to reinforce meaning, e.g. tone, voice projection/modulation, volume, pace/tempo, phrasing, eye contact, facial expressions, gestures and body language
- Speak with appropriate, clear intonation and pronunciation, modulated for meaning

Features and conventions of oral communication texts

1. Informal speaking and group work

Speaking/oral text form	Purpose	Features
Informal discussion/conversation/dialogue/group work See: Expressions used in conversational English – Reference list Below	To share ideas, opinions and viewpoints with individuals groups	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Initiate and sustain conversations • Use turn-taking conventions • Fill in gaps and encourage the speaker • Clarify meaning where necessary • Give and justify opinion; negotiate a position • Share ideas and experiences • Ask and respond to questions to sustain communication • Promote the aims of the group work by taking on leadership and other roles • Respond to language, gestures, eye contact and body language • Signal interest and attention appropriately through expression, posture and gesture
Unprepared reading aloud	To share a text written by self or other	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Read fluently according to meaning and purpose • Pronounce words without distorting meaning • Enhance meaning through tone, voice projection, pace, eye contact, posture and gestures

2. Formal speaking and presenting

See also general comments on planning and presenting above.

Speaking/oral text form	Purpose	Features
Prepared speech This form will display evidence of research and/preparation	Various: to inform/persuade/share and justify viewpoint or opinion Oral report; review	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Conduct research • Organise material coherently. Choose and develop main ideas and support with examples • Use correct format, vocabulary, language and conventions • Use rhetorical questions, pauses and repetition • Use tone, voice projection, pace, eye contact, posture and gestures • Use effective introduction and conclusion • Use appropriate style and register • Incorporate appropriate visual, audio and/or audiovisual aids, e.g. charts, posters, objects, images
Unprepared speech	Various: to present a speech without preparing	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use tone, voice projection, pace, eye contact, posture and gestures • Display sense of audience and make contact with listeners

	beforehand/to arrange logic promptly/employ speech techniques at short notice	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use appropriate and effective vocabulary and language structures • Use effective introduction and conclusion
Prepared reading aloud	To share a text written by self or other; to entertain	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Read fluently and attentively according to purpose and task • Pronounce words without distorting meaning • Enhance meaning through tone, voice projection, pace, eye contact, posture and gestures
Interview	To elicit information or point of view from an individual or panel In Grade 12 learners will role play the job interview	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Plan and prepare for interview, e.g. by determining goal, background information, and preparing questions • Create rapport with the interviewee/s (an atmosphere of trust) • Listen actively, evaluate responses, and respond appropriately • Introduce participants • Ask questions to elicit information. Questions should be relevant and expressed sensitively and respectfully • Summarise or record responses, e.g. by taking notes; summarising, sequencing and arranging responses and important details in logical order • Close the interview, e.g. thank the interviewee

3. Argument and viewpoint

Speaking/oral text form	Purpose	Features
Panel Discussion	To share different opinions or information from different sources	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Each speaker talks about a particular aspect of the topic • Be aware of the role and duties of the chairperson <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Keeping order ▪ Managing time ▪ Keeping to the agenda ▪ Encouraging participation ▪ Remaining neutral ▪ Calling for proposal or votes
Debate	To argue different viewpoints on a chosen topic This is a formal oral form for public viewing and participation.	Debating procedure: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Two teams of speakers, usually three per team, argue for or against a motion. Motions make claims or propositions, e.g. ‘The World Cup was good for our economy’, rather than simply ‘The World Cup’. • Debate proceedings are controlled by a chairperson, who: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ introduces the motion and gives some background to it; ▪ introduces each speaker; ▪ maintains order; ▪ keeps time – speakers are given time limits; ▪ manages the discussion when the motion is opened to the floor (see below); ▪ manages the vote (see below). • The chair introduces the motion and asks the first speaker for the proposition (the team arguing for the motion) to speak. • The first speaker for the proposition presents arguments supporting the motion. • The first speaker for the opposition (those speaking against the motion) presents arguments opposing the motion and may also rebut (attack) the first speaker’s arguments. • The second speaker for the proposition builds on the team’s

		arguments, presents new arguments, and rebuts the previous speaker's points. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The second speaker for the opposition does the same. • The motion is opened to the floor (audience) for discussion and questions. • Following the general discussion the opposition sums up first. The third speaker repeats the team's main arguments and tries to persuade the audience to vote against the motion, giving reasons. This speaker may also rebut previous arguments. • The third speaker for the proposition does the same. • The debate may be concluded and a result obtained in different ways, e.g. by having the speeches assessed (scored) by a judge, or putting the motion to the vote.

4. Speaking for specific purposes/contexts

Speaking/oral text form	Purpose	Features
Giving directions	To tell someone how to get somewhere	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use mostly the imperative form • Use concise and clear sentences • Use chronological order • Refer to a specific direction • Indicate the approximate distance • Provide information about landmarks along the way
Instructions	To explain how to use a tool or instrument, prepare food, repair faults, etc.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explain how to use an tool or instrument, or how to make something • Describe the materials needed • Provide a clear, correct and logical sequence of instructions • Use appropriate vocabulary, expressions or technical language
Introducing a speaker	To give an audience information about a speaker/guest	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Obtain relevant information from the speaker • Use a formal style or register • Create interest and expectation in the audience, e.g. by telling the audience about relevant background information and achievements • Build expectation through, e.g. pauses and inflection • End strongly and confidently
Offering a vote of thanks	To thank a speaker after delivering a speech to an audience	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use a formal register • Listen carefully to the speaker, to point out some highlights in the address • Mention strong points in the address • End strongly and confidently

Suggested length of texts to be used for listening comprehension

Texts	Grade	Length of text
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Oral, visual, audio-visual and multimodal texts from the mass media • Audio texts (Grades 10 and 11, listening comprehension clip two minutes long and Grade 12 clip three minutes long) should be played/read at least two times • Creative texts • Referential and informational texts • Texts for enrichment • Audio-visual texts (films, television programmes and documentaries, slide shows, recordings, radio programmes, photographs, music videos) 	10	150 words/about 2 minutes
	11	250 words/about 2 ½ minutes
	12	350 words/about 3 minutes
OR a 30-minute test including a two-minute audio clip (Grades 10 & 11) and three-minute audio clip (Grade 12) with questions to answer

Suggested duration of oral communication

Texts	Duration Grades 10 – 12
Conversations, debates, forum/group/panel discussions, group discussions	20 – 30 minutes for group/class
Dialogues	3 – 4 minutes for a pair/5 – 6 minutes for a group
Directions and instructions	1 – 2 minutes
Interviews	8 – 10 minutes for the group
Introducing a speaker, vote of thanks	1 – 2 minutes
Prepared reading	2 – 3 minutes
Prepared speeches, report, review	2 – 3 minutes
Storytelling, relating events	Up to 5 minutes
Meeting and procedures	8 – 10 minutes for the group
Day-to-day oral communication, e.g. seeking assistance, apologising, etc.	1 – 2 minutes

3.2 Reading and viewing

Reading and viewing combines two elements: 1) learning and applying strategies for decoding and understanding text; 2) learning and applying knowledge of text features. Both aspects should be present in reading and viewing instruction of literary and non-literary texts.

Reading and viewing content is arranged into: 1) reading for comprehension; 2) reading for formal study (setworks), and 3) extended independent reading.

Reading process

Reading instruction will usually involve working through elements of the reading process. This is a three-phase activity which models independent reading strategies for decoding and understanding text. Not every step of the process will be used on every occasion. For example, if learners are reading an unfamiliar text type or genre, they will need to do a pre-reading activity which alerts them to surface features of this text type, and helps them make associations with their own experience. Reading activities would help them analyse its structure and language features in more detail. Post-reading might involve learners in trying to reproduce the genre in a written text of their own.

Reading process

- 1. Pre-reading introduces learners to the text. It activates associations and previous knowledge.
 - Skimming and scanning text features: titles, headings, subheadings, captions, visual elements and graphic information, e.g. fonts and numbering, layout, icons, illustrations, graphs, charts, diagrams, maps, pull down menus, key word searches, etc.
 - Skimming and scanning parts of a book, e.g. title page, table of contents, chapters, glossary, index, appendix, footnotes, etc.
 - Predicting, using the information gained from skimming and scanning
 - Dealing with any key vocabulary that may be unfamiliar to the learners
- 2. Reading involves making meaning of the text and paying close attention to its language features:
 - Actively making sense of the text.
 - Working out the meaning of unfamiliar words and images by using word attack skills and contextual clues
 - Using comprehension strategies: making connections, monitoring comprehension, adjusting reading speed to text difficulty, re-reading where necessary, looking forward in the text for information that might help, asking and answering questions (from lower to higher order), visualising, inferring, reading for main ideas, attending to word choice and language structures, recognising the text type by its structure and language features.
 - Making notes or summarising main and supporting ideas.
- 3. Post-reading enables the learners to view and respond to the text as a whole:
 - Answering questions on the text from lower order to higher order
 - Comparing and contrasting; synthesising
 - Evaluating, drawing conclusions and expressing own opinion
 - Reproducing the genre in writing of their own (where appropriate)

Examples of question types

Knowledge questions	What happened after ...? Can you name the ... Describe what happened at ... Who spoke to ...? What is the meaning of?
Comprehension questions	Who was the key character ...? Can you provide an example of ...? Can you explain in your own words?
Application questions	Can you think of any other instance where? Do you remember we were looking at metaphors – how would you explain the metaphor in this line?
Analysis questions	How was this similar to ...? How was this different to ...? What was the underlying theme of ...? Why do you think?
Synthesis questions	We've learned a lot of different things about Romeo – can you put them all together and describe his character? What kind of person is he?
Evaluation questions	How effective is? Can you think of a better way of? Which of these two poems do you prefer? Why?

Selecting a text-type or genre

Teachers should ensure that learners read a range of texts and genres during the year. There should be a balance between short and long texts and between reading for different purposes, e.g. aesthetic purposes (formal text study in set work), texts for mass distribution in the media, visual texts for enjoyment (see “Texts used for integrated teaching of language skills”), etc.

INTENSIVE READING

1.1 Intensive reading of shorter written texts for COMPREHENSION at a word level

Learners apply a variety of strategies to decode texts. They build vocabulary through word-attack skills and exposure.

- Use dictionaries, thesauruses and other reference works to determine the meaning, spelling, pronunciation and parts of speech of unfamiliar words
- Identify the meaning of common prefixes (e.g., bi-, un- or re-) and common suffixes (e.g. -ful).
- Determine the meaning of words and their connection to word families using knowledge of common roots, suffixes and prefixes
- Use textual context (e.g. in-sentence definitions), cues (e.g. commas, quotes) and graphic cues (e.g. bold face) to determine the meaning of unfamiliar words
- Recognise common allusions, idioms and proverbs, e.g. the Midas touch.
- Distinguish between denotation and connotation
- Evaluate how words from various origins impact on text, e.g. Latin- and Greek- based words, street slang, dialects, borrowed words (e.g. ubuntu, dorp, bunny chow).
- Distinguish between commonly confused words: homophones, homonyms, homographs, synonyms, e.g. allusion/illusion; complement/compliment; imply/infer
- Recognise a wide range of abbreviations and acronyms
- Apply knowledge of grammar to decode meaning. See Language structures and conventions – Reference List below (3.4).

1.2 Intensive reading of shorter written texts for COMPREHENSION at sentence and paragraph level

Learners apply their grammatical knowledge to understand sentence construction and the organisation of texts. Text study at this level provides an opportunity for integrated teaching of language structures.

- Identify, explain and analyse the meaning and functions of language structures and conventions in texts. See Language structures and conventions – Reference List below (3.4).
- Analyse the structure of texts used for different purposes (e.g. description, definition, cause-and-effect) across the curriculum and their related transitional words/signal words/conjunctions (e.g. on the one hand, firstly, because). See Writing and Presenting for appropriate text types.

1.3 Intensive reading of shorter written texts for COMPREHENSION at a whole text level

Learners apply their knowledge of genre and formal text study to understand the meaning, intention and effect of the whole text.

- Relate the text to their own experience
- Identify the text and its purpose, e.g. an argument which seeks to persuade
- Identify and explain author’s attitude and intentions
- Synthesise parts of texts or whole texts in order to reach conclusions
- Draw conclusions; form and justify own opinion
- Evaluate the effectiveness of the text in terms of its purpose
- Compare and contrast texts

1.4 Intensive reading of shorter texts for SUMMARY AND NOTE TAKING.

Learners apply their understanding of text features to summarise text. See reading strategies above.

- Skim and scan for main ideas and theme
- Separate main ideas from supporting details
- Paraphrase the main ideas (write them in own words)

- Sequence the sentences and use conjunctions and logical connectives to link them together into a text

1.5 Intensive reading of shorter texts for CRITICAL LANGUAGE AWARENESS.

Learners apply their understanding of how language can create and maintain power relationships between text producer and reader. They analyse the point of view from which the text is written.

- Identify, analyse and evaluate emotive and manipulative language
- Identify, analyse and evaluate bias and prejudice, and any stereotyping
- Identify, analyse and evaluate assumptions and explain their impact
- Identify, analyse and evaluate implied meaning and inference
- Identify, analyse and evaluate denotation and connotation
- Suggest the purpose of including or excluding information
- Recognise the writer/producer's point of view

1.6 Intensive reading of multimodal and visual texts

(Multimodal texts make use of visual and written material in a single text, e.g. advertisements, cartoons. They can also combine this with spoken language and gestures.)

Learners apply their knowledge of images and visual elements to understand how these support writing in multimodal texts. Learners apply the meta-language of visual literary/film study to understand and appreciate visual text elements and their effect.

- Identify, analyse and evaluate the way visual elements are integrated with written text in multimodal texts, e.g. layout, illustrations, graphic information
- Identify, analyse and evaluate the purpose and message in visual texts for information, e.g. graphs, tables, documentaries, charts, maps
- Identify, analyse and evaluate the message and effectiveness of visual elements of advertisements and the relationship between the written and the visual elements
- Identify, analyse and evaluate the purpose and message in visual texts which show relationships, e.g. mind-maps, diagrams, pie charts, maps, plans
- Identify, analyse and evaluate the purpose, aesthetic qualities and design of visual texts created for aesthetic purposes, e.g. photographs, film, design elements
- Identify, analyse and evaluate the purpose and message of visual texts created for enjoyment and entertainment, e.g. film, cartoons, music videos, comic strips
- Identify, analyse and evaluate the message and effectiveness of visual texts which support speaking, e.g. posters diagrams, data projection
- In film study only) Identify, understand, analyse and evaluate the relationship between sound, speech, action and visual elements in film and other audio-visual forms

FORMAL STUDY OF LITERARY TEXTS

Learners read, evaluate and respond to the aesthetic qualities of literary text. They apply the meta-language of literature study to understand and appreciate elements of literary texts. TWO texts, selected from different genres, are selected from the National Literature Catalogue for formal study and assessment each year. A range of texts is studied over Grades 10-12: poetry and/or short stories and/or novel and/or drama and/or other texts for enrichment. See “Texts for the integrated study of language skills” at the end of this section.

NOTE: The emphasis in formal text study will change depending on the setwork/chosen text.

- Understand the distinctive qualities of different literary forms, e.g. that a poem has different characteristics from a novel
- Identify and explain figurative language and rhetorical devices as they appear in different texts, e.g. simile, metaphor, personification, alliteration, onomatopoeia, hyperbole, contrast, irony, sarcasm, anti-climax, symbol, euphemism, pun, understatement
- Identify and explain author's/poet's/producer's intention
- Explain choice and effectiveness in poetry of how elements support the message/theme. Elements may include figures of speech, imagery, structural elements and sound devices, e.g. rhyme, refrain, rhythm, alliteration

- Explain choice and effectiveness in drama of how elements support the message/theme. In addition to figures of speech and imagery, elements may include figures of speech, imagery, structural elements, e.g. plot, climax, characterisation, stage directions, dramatic irony, setting
- Explain choice and effectiveness in short stories/novels/films of how elements support the message/theme. In addition to figures of speech and imagery, elements may include role of the narrator, structural elements, e.g. plot, exposition, rising action, conflict, climax, falling action/anticlimax, denouement/resolution, setting
- In addition, for film, use of camera work and editing, e.g. close-up, long shot, music and sound track, special effects, colour, to convey the message/theme.

EXTENDED INDEPENDENT READING AND VIEWING

Learners practise the strategies modelled in intensive reading and formal text study for extra-curricular independent reading for pleasure and research. Teacher guidance on access and level is crucial to this part of the reading programme.

- Access libraries and know book storage conventions
- Provide evidence of extended reading and viewing in the form of speeches, discussions and book/film/programme reviews
- Read/view a wide range of whole texts, e.g. books, magazines, newspapers, websites, films, documentaries, TV series both during and after class.

TEXTS USED FOR THE INTEGRATED TEACHING OF LANGUAGE SKILLS, GRADES 10 – 12

In addition to literary texts for formal study, texts to be covered in Grades 10 – 12 include written, visual and multimedia texts with different purposes. Some texts will be studied for their aesthetic qualities; some texts will be studied as examples and as models for writing.

3.3 Writing and presenting

Writing and presenting combines three elements: 1) using the writing process; 2) learning and applying knowledge of the structure and features of different text types; 3) learning and applying knowledge of paragraph and sentence structure and punctuation.

Writing process

Writing instruction will usually involve working through the writing process. However, not every step of the process will be used on every occasion. For example, if learners are writing a familiar text type, they will not need to analyse its structure and language features in so much detail. There may also be occasions when teachers need to focus on sentence structure or paragraph writing, or learners write texts without drafts in preparation for the examination.

Selecting a text-type

Teachers should ensure that learners write a range of texts during the year. There should be a balance between short and long texts and writing for different purposes: cognitive academic, creative, personal/interpersonal and work-related. Teachers should choose a text type and an appropriate topic to write about, for example, an argumentative essay on the topic ‘Cell phones are taking over our lives’.

Steps in the writing process

1. Planning/Pre-writing

- Analyse the structure, language features and register of the text type that has been selected
- Decide on its purpose, audience and context
- Brainstorm ideas for the topic using, for example, mind maps
- Discuss the criteria that will be used to evaluate the piece of writing
- Research the topic, for example in a library, and select relevant information
- Identify main ideas and supporting detail
- Sequence ideas in a logical order so that they make sense

2. Drafting

- Write a rough first draft that takes into account purpose, audience, topic and text type
- Choose appropriate words, for example, in a narrative use evocative words and phrases to make the writing vivid
- Organise ideas in a logical sequence so that the argument flows smoothly in an essay
- Organise ideas and/or images so that a story makes sense
- Establish an individual voice and style
- Read drafts critically and get feedback from teacher and classmates

3. Revising, editing, proofreading and presenting

- Evaluate their own and others’ writing for improvement using set criteria
- Refine word choice, sentence and paragraph structure
- Work on the sequencing and linking of paragraphs
- Eliminate ambiguity, verbosity and any offensive language
- Use grammar, spelling and punctuation correctly

- Prepare the final draft including layout, for example, headings and fonts
- Present the text

Learners apply their knowledge of language structures and conventions to writing texts

1. Word choice

- Know and use a wide range of vocabulary
- Know the denotative and connotative meanings of words
- Know what part of speech a word is and how to use it in a sentence
- Know whether a word is formal, informal, or slang (or offensive) and how to use it appropriately (or not at all)
- Spell words correctly
- Use monolingual and bilingual dictionaries and thesauruses to expand vocabulary
- Keep a personal dictionary or vocabulary book to expand vocabulary

2. Sentence construction

- Write simple, compound and complex sentences
- Use conjunctions to join clauses in compound sentences: and, but, nor, or, so, then, yet
- Use subordinating conjunctions to join clauses in complex sentences:
 - time clauses: when, before, after, since, while, as, until
 - conditional clauses: if, unless
 - purpose clauses: in order to, so that
 - reason clauses: because, since, as
 - result clauses: so that
 - concessive clauses: although, though, while
 - place clauses: where, wherever
 - clauses of manner: as, like, the way
 - Use defining and non-defining relative clauses
- Use noun phrases, adjectival phrases and adverbial phrases to expand sentences, for example, The old man with a stick was walking down the winding road.

3. Punctuation

- Know and be able to use the following punctuation marks appropriately and accurately: full stop, comma, colon, semi-colon, hyphen, dash, apostrophe, question mark, exclamation mark, brackets, quotation marks

4. Paragraph writing

- Write paragraphs with a topic sentence and supporting sentences in non-fiction texts
- Organise sentences in a logical sequence to create a coherent paragraph that is appropriate for the text type
- Uses logical connectors to link sentences in a paragraph:
 - ordering ideas: firstly, secondly, finally, etc.
 - addition: moreover, furthermore, in addition, etc.
 - similarity: similarly, likewise, in the same way, etc.
 - contrast: however, nevertheless, although, though, on the other hand, etc.
 - cause/effect: because, therefore, as a result, consequently, etc.
 - conditions: if, provided that, unless, etc.
 - sequence in time: next, soon, after, then, later, suddenly, afterwards, etc.
- Use logical connectors, pronouns and the repetition of words, synonyms and antonyms to create a cohesive paragraph (i.e. a paragraph with links that hold it together and give it meaning)

5. Register, style, voice

- Use an appropriate register, for example business English in a business letter, and style (formal or informal)
- Establish an individual voice, for example, write from own point of view

Text types – structure and language features

The tables below describe the range of text types that learners should be taught to write in Grades 10 -12; other texts could also be included where appropriate.

1. Essays and various transactional texts (Cognitive academic)

Text type	Purpose	Text Structure	Language features
Information	To classify	An opening, general classification e.g.	Written in the simple

report	and describe phenomena	Weavers are seed-eating birds. More technical classification (optional), e.g. Their Latin name is ploceidae. A description of the phenomenon including some or all of its: Qualities, e.g. The male of the species is brightly coloured, usually yellow and black. Parts and their functions, e.g. Weavers have round conical bills. Habits, behaviour or uses, e.g. Weavers make elaborate woven nests. May have accompanying visual text, e.g. diagrams, photos	present tense Initial focus on generic participants, e.g. Weavers in general not a particular weaver. Moves from the general to the specific May use technical vocabulary, e.g. conical, seed-eating
Procedures (e.g. instructions, directions, and rules)	To describe or instruct how something is done through a series of sequenced steps	Goal: a statement of what is to be achieved, e.g. How to make a cover for a portfolio Materials/equipment needed listed in order, e.g. Large sheet of art paper, paints, etc. Sequenced steps to achieve the goal, e.g. First, paint a blue background on the paper. May have accompanying visual text, e.g. storyboard, diagrams, etc.	Written in the imperative, e.g. Paint a blue background ... In chronological order, e.g. First ... next ... Use of numbers and bullet points to signal order Focus on generalised human agents rather than named individuals Expressions of cause and effect
Explanation (e.g. the life cycle of a butterfly; how a dynamo works)	To explain how or why a process occurs	General statement to introduce the topic, e.g. A dynamo is a machine which changes mechanical energy into electrical energy. A series of logical steps explaining how or why something occurs, e.g. When the axle of the dynamo is turned, it receives mechanical energy ... May have accompanying visual text, e.g. diagrams	Written in simple present tense May use conjunctions and logical connectors that signal time, e.g. then, next, etc. May use causal conjunctions and logical connectors, e.g. because, so, this causes May use passive voice
Persuasion/Argumentative	To argue a case for a point of view; to attempt to convince the reader	Statement of position, e.g. Shops should be closed on Sunday. Series of arguments – often in the form of a point plus elaboration, e.g. Everyone needs a day of rest. This is especially important for people who work in shops because ... Reinforcement – summary and restatement of the opening position, e.g. We have seen that ... so ...	Simple present tense Focus mainly on generic participants, e.g. shops, people Reason, cause/effect, concessive conjunctions/logical connectors, e.g. this shows, however, because, therefore
Discussion/Discursive	To present arguments from differing viewpoints	Statement of the issue; may preview main arguments, e.g. The issue of whether or not we should wear school uniforms is very important. There are good reasons both ... Arguments for, plus supporting evidence Arguments against, plus supporting evidence Conclusion – summary and recommendation	Simple present tense Generic participants, e.g. school uniforms, students Reason, cause/effect, concessive conjunctions/logical connectors, e.g. therefore, however, so Movement from generic to the specific

Reflective	To give emotional reaction and feeling on a specific matter	A writer can reflect on dream or aspirations, e.g. How I remember my best teacher; My view of life... Subjective Feelings and emotions play an important role Greater part of the essay may be descriptive	Personal pronouns Vocabulary that expresses view points, emotions, etc.
Review (e.g. book or film review)	To summarise, analyse and respond to literary texts or performances	Context: background information such as author, illustrator, type of work Text description: describes elements of the text or production such as main characters, key incidents and stylistic features Judgment: evaluation of the work by expressing an opinion or judgment	Written in the present/past tense Use of appreciation vocabulary to evaluate text, e.g. enjoyable, heart-warming, funny, exciting, amusing, important, informative, outstanding

2. Essays or creative texts

Text type	Purpose	Text structure	Language features
Narrative	To entertain	Orientation that introduces characters and setting, e.g. Once upon time there was an old woman who lived with her son called Jack. They were very poor. Events leading to a complication, e.g. Jack spent all the money his mother gave him on some magic beans. His mother was angry. Resolution and ending, e.g. Jack came back with the Giant's treasure and they lived happily ever after.	Written in the first or third person Written in the past tense Events described sequentially Connectives that signal time, e.g. Early that morning, later on, once Makes use of dialogue Language used to create an impact on the reader, e.g. adverbs, adjectives, images
Descriptive	To describe something in a vivid way	Identification: gives a general orientation to the subject, e.g. There was a huge beast Description: describes features or characteristics of the subject, e.g. It had a huge bulbous body with bloated pustules dripping green slimy liquid onto the floor.	May be written in past or present tense Creates a picture in words Uses adjectives, adverbs Uses figurative language, e.g. simile, metaphor, personification, alliteration

3. Transactional texts (Personal/Interpersonal)

Text type	Purpose	Text structure	Language features
Diary/journal	To record and reflect on personal experience	Usually written in a special book (a diary or a journal) Entries written regularly (e.g. daily or weekly) Entries dated May use personal recount text type (see below)	Usually written in past tense Informal in style The writer is writing for him or herself
Personal (friendly) letter	To inform and maintain a relationship	Address, date and salutation Structure of message will vary depending on purpose (e.g. catch up on news, congratulate, sympathise) May use personal recount text type (see below)	Usually informal in style but can vary, e.g. letter of condolence will be more formal Language features will vary according to

		Closing, signature	purpose of message
Personal recount	To tell about a personal experience	Orientation: scene setting or establishing context, e.g. It was in the school holidays An account of the events that took place, often in chronological order, e.g. I went to Tumelo's place ... Then ... Some additional detail about each event, e.g. He was surprised to see me. Reorientation – a closing statement that may include elaboration, e.g. I hope I can spend more time with Tumelo. We had fun.	Usually written in the past tense Told in first or third person Time connectives are used, e.g. First, then, next, afterwards, just before that, at last, meanwhile Tends to focus on individual or group participants Can be informal in style
Invitation (and reply)	To invite someone to an event or to do something (and either accept or decline)	May take the form of a personal letter or use an invitation card. Includes: Nature of the event Where it will take place Date and time May include dress code Name of invitee May include RSVP May have a visual, design element The response may be in the form of a note or letter.	Can be formal or informal in style Generally concise – brief and to the point Makes use of conventional phrases, e.g. I would like to invite you ... Response is polite, e.g. Thank you so much for inviting me but I'm afraid I won't be able to attend.
Obituary	To commemorate and inform others of someone's death	Full name; date of death, where the person was living at the time of death; date of birth; birthplace; key survivors (spouse, children) and their names; time, date, place of funeral Some of the following may also be included: Cause of death; biographical information; memorial tribute information	Formal in style May use euphemisms, e.g. passed away instead of died Usually concise Makes uses of language conventions, e.g. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to

4. Transactional texts (Business)

Text type	Purpose	Text structure	Language features
Business letter	Various, e.g. to apply for a job or bursary; to complain, request, etc.	Writer's address, date, recipient's address, salutation May have a heading Structure of message will vary depending on purpose, e.g. letter to the press Closing, signature	Usually formal in style Makes use of language conventions, e.g. Dear Sir/Madam, Yours sincerely Generally concise – brief and to the point
Curriculum vitae (CV)	To provide a summary of a person's life and qualifications	Personal details: name, date of birth, nationality, ID number, address, etc. Formal qualifications, e.g. grades passed Work experience (if applicable) Hobbies and interests Referees Design and layout is important	Concise – not more than two pages Headings and bullets Formal and direct in style
Filling in forms	Various, e.g. to apply for a job, place at	Will vary according to the purpose	The person completing the form should be concise, accurate, formal,

	university, etc.		neat (writing should be legible)
Agenda	To provide structure for a meeting	Name of organisation Date, time and place of meeting Welcome and apologies Matters arising from minutes of previous meeting Items to be discussed Any other business	Items are usually numbered Language very concise – note form may be used Actionable words used, e.g. approve, discuss, announce Items are numbered Formal language Some language conventions, e.g. Matters arising; any other business
Minutes	To provide a record of a meeting	Name of organisation Date, time and place of meeting List of people present and apologies Minutes from previous meeting approved (may be amended) Record of discussion, decisions/action taken and person responsible Time that meeting ended	Concise language Formal language Items numbered Headings and bullets may be used Some language conventions, e.g. Matters arising; any other business
Flyer	To persuade someone to buy something or use a service	Small size, e.g. A5 paper Eye-catching headline, slogan or logo Brief description of product List of benefits or offers Contact information, e.g. website May have a visual, design element	Speaks directly to the reader Concise language Language used to create an Impact on the reader, e.g. adverbs, adjectives, figurative language such as alliteration, metaphor
Advertisement	To persuade someone to buy something or use a service	Can take a variety of forms Make use of slogans and logos Usually have a visual, design element Use advertising techniques Use design to make the advertisement eye-catching and memorable	Figurative language and poetic devices used to create impact and make the language memorable, e.g. metaphor, simile, alliteration, repetition, rhyme, rhythm

Length of written texts to be produced

	Grades	Number of words
Essays: narrative, argumentative, discursive, descriptive, reflective	10	150 – 200 words
	11	200 – 250 words
	12	250 – 300 words
Longer transactional texts: Friendly/formal letters (request/ complaint/application/ business/thanks/congratulations/ sympathy)/formal and informal letters to the press/ curriculum vitae and covering letter/obituary/agenda and minutes of meeting/report/book or film	10 – 12	120 – 150 words (content only)

review/newspaper article/magazine article/brochure/speech/dialogue/written interview
Shorter transactional texts: Advertisements/Diary entries/ Postcards/ Invitation cards/Filling in forms/ Directions/ Obituary/Instructions/Flyers/ Posters/emails	10 – 12	80 – 100 words

3.4 Language structures and conventions – reference list

The following language structures and conventions will be taught in the context of reading and writing, and also as part of a systematic grammar programme. Some of the structures and conventions will have been introduced in earlier grades but may still need to be revised. Other grammatical structures are introduced in the FET Phase.

Nouns	Countable (e.g. chair/chairs) and uncountable (e.g. furniture) nouns Number (singular and plural), e.g. chair/chairs Nouns with no change in number in the singular form, e.g. scissors, trousers Common (e.g. woman) and proper nouns (e.g. Thandi) Abstract nouns, e.g. love, fear, respect, honesty Possessive forms of nouns, e.g. Lesego's desk, learners' desks children's toys Collective nouns and classifiers, e.g. a swarm of bees, a bar of soap	Revision Revision Revision Revision Revision Revision
Determiners	Indefinite article: a book, an apple Definite article: the book, the furniture, the apples Demonstratives: this, that, those, these (e.g. That book is mine.) Quantity 1: all, some, most, no, none (e.g. Most learners understood the lesson.) Quantity 2: both, either, neither (e.g. Both learners stood up.) Quantity 3: much, little, many, few, more, less, fewer (e.g. The school has many learners.) Quantity 4: some, any, another, other, each, every (e.g. Each learner received a book.)	Revision Revision FET FET FET FET FET
Pronouns	Personal pronouns as subject: I, you, he, she, it, we, they (e.g. She is reading the book.) Personal pronouns as direct or indirect object: me, you, him, her, it, us, them (e.g. She gave it to me.) Reflexive pronouns: myself, yourself, himself, herself, ourselves, yourselves, themselves (e.g. He washed himself with soap.) Relative pronouns: which, who, that, whose, where (e.g. The man who is standing by the window is my teacher.) Interrogative pronouns: who, what, which, whose, whom (e.g. Whose book is this?)	Revision Revision FET FET FET
Adjectives	Position of adjectives, e.g. The old man (before a noun); The boy was mischievous (after a verb) Adjectives ending in -ing, e.g. amazing, boring, exciting (e.g. The lesson was boring.) Adjectives ending in -ed, e.g. amazed, bored, excited (e.g. The student was bored.) Comparison of adjectives, e.g. happy, happier, happiest; intelligent, more intelligent, most intelligent (e.g. It was the happiest day of my life./She is the most intelligent student in the class.)	Revision FET FET Revision
Adverbs	Adverbs of manner, e.g. quietly, carefully, politely, softly, quickly Adverbs of time, e.g. yesterday, tomorrow, last year, last week, the other day Adverbs of frequency, e.g. always, usually, often, sometimes, never Adverbs of probability, e.g. certainly, definitely, maybe, perhaps, possibly Adverbs of duration, e.g. still, yet, any more Adverbs of degree, e.g. completely, strongly, totally, quite, rather Adverbial phrases, e.g. in the garden, on the table	Revision Revision Revision FET FET FET Revision

Prepositions	Place and direction,, e.g. above, below, in, under, at, on, behind, between, beside Adjective + preposition, e.g. afraid of, ashamed of, bored with, impatient with, rude to Noun + preposition, e.g. invitation to, approach to, reason for, respect for, comment on	Revision FET FET
Verbs	Transitive and intransitive verbs, e.g. He bought a pen./The girl laughed. Verbs with two objects (direct and indirect), e.g. He gave me the book.	Revision FET
Verb tenses	Simple present tense, e.g. I play tennis every week./Snakes are reptiles. Present progressive (or continuous) tense, e.g. She is watching television at the moment. Present perfect tense, e.g. I have lived in Durban all my life. Present perfect progressive (or continuous) tense, e.g. He has been studying hard the whole week. Simple past tense, e.g. He woke up early and got out of bed. Past progressive (or continuous) tense, e.g. The family were sleeping, when the fire broke out. Past perfect, e.g. He went home because he had forgotten his keys. Past perfect progressive (or continuous), e.g. I had been waiting for two hours by the time he finally arrived. Expressing future time: Will/shall + infinitive, e.g. Mrs Molefe will teach the Grade 10 class./I am sure you will enjoy the movie. Going to + infinitive, e.g. They are going to visit her grandparents./I think it is going to rain tomorrow. Simple present tense used to talk about the future, e.g. Tomorrow is a holiday. Future progressive (or continuous), e.g. I will be working the whole of next week. Future perfect, e.g. By next week I will have finished the job. Future perfect progressive (or continuous), e.g. Next year I will have been teaching at this school for twenty years.	Revision Revision Revision Revision Revision Revision Revision Revision FET FET FET FET

3.5. Teaching plans

This document suggests that each cycle will include one or more units focused on each of the skills: listening, speaking, reading, viewing, writing, presenting and language. Each cycle will provide activities for learners to study, read or view a series of oral, written and visual texts. In each cycle the activities would draw learners' attention to correct grammar and genre forms. Over a year, approximately 18 of these cycles would cover all aspects of the curriculum in 36 weeks. In addition, the level of difficulty in all areas would increase from term to term and year to year until, over the course of three years, the learners would be ready to write the final Grade 12 examination. Progression therefore also becomes part of the organising of learning programmes. This structure gives learners and teachers the opportunity to build context, to consolidate vocabulary, and to become familiar with language structures over two weeks before moving on to other skills. At the same time it offers variety and can be tailored to the interests of a group. For example, "Soccer" was a common teaching theme during the World Cup, but could be followed by a cycle on traditional weddings or good environmental practice.

Integrated language teaching: the teaching cycle

In practice, integration suggests variety: variety of forms, of activities, of texts and themes. When designing an integrated two-week cycle, the teacher may cluster activities around a topic, e.g. working world; an issue, e.g. climate change; a setwork; a skill from the curriculum, e.g. debate, argumentative writing, argument structures; or a text or group of texts from "Texts used for the integrated teaching of language skills". The sequence of lessons in a two-week cycle can follow any order, e.g. a cycle might start with reading and progress to discussion (speaking), which is followed by writing. Either the setwork text (where appropriate) or another text can be used for the activities outlined below.

The teacher should choose a setwork for literary text study. This may be a group of poems, a novel, a set of short stories, drama or a film (see "Texts used for integrated teaching of language skills"). These appear as Reading and viewing in the Teaching Plan as literary text one – eighteen. The teacher may choose to teach any order for teaching texts or alternate poems with short stories. If the teacher chooses a longer continuous text such as novel, drama or film it is suggested that it is taught continuously so that learners do not forget details of the plot and characters. If a novel, drama or film is chosen, the teacher will need to divide the text into as many units as there is time available in the Teaching Plan, e.g. 10 units if it is to be studied in the first two terms of Grade 10. These units could be 10 chapters, 10 sections of the drama or 10 scenes of the film which use intensive reading strategies for exploring meaning and effect. Additional sections of the work will be read as homework or part of the extended reading programme.

This curriculum presents an explicit grammar focus. In practice, language will take about an hour every two weeks, with half taught in context with writing and reading, and half taught explicitly. In addition to planned grammar teaching there will be remedial teaching or revision of language drawn from learners' writing errors.

Turning the Teaching Plan into teaching and learning activities

An example based on Teaching Plan Grade 10, Term 1, Weeks 5 and 6 (11 × 50-minute lessons) = 9 hours' teaching

5 and 6	Giving opinions. In groups each learner gives an opinion of a photograph or picture which includes an unusual detail, e.g. a fashion photograph with a tattoo	Intensive reading. Text giving opinion/attitude, e.g. from magazine or newspaper article. Identify and explain writer's attitude. Explain and justify own attitude/opinion This text can be related to the theme of the photograph used for listening or not	Fill in a form Write a letter/email to a friend giving an opinion OR write a dialogue <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Focus on process writing : Planning, drafting, revision, editing and presenting 	Emotive language, generalising, stereotyping. Reported speech Punctuation conventions of reported speech OR dialogue Vocabulary: related to reading text
----------------	--	--	--	---

Cycle theme: Giving and responding to opinions. Sub-theme: fashion and body

Lesson 1: (mainly oral)

- Introduction: associations and experience. Group discussion. Show the whole class or give each group a photograph on which they can give opinion, e.g. a photograph of a tattoo, multiple ear and nose piercings, blue hair, etc. Group discussion giving and justifying opinions on the image in the photograph. Teacher/group leader captures opinions for vocabulary building.
- Vocabulary relevant to the text and to opinion-giving. Sentence frames for interrupting politely etc. in addendum.
- Homework: write a paragraph capturing own response and (possibly) the opinions of others.

Lesson 2: (mainly preparing for writing)

- View photograph again – remind learners of some vocabulary, main outlines of the discussion and their opinions.
- Contributions from some learners: read their homework aloud to the class.
- Teach structure of an opinion: statement and reasons with supporting details. Model one on the board from learner contributions.

Lesson 3: (mainly writing)

- Learners write their opinion in one/two paragraphs. They use process writing, i.e.: Write, revise, edit (for opinion structure). Learners can edit each other's work (peer editing). The final product is a letter or email to a friend sharing their opinion.
- Remind learners of the structure of a letter or email.
- This writing is for possible assessment – teacher skims/marks. Makes list of common errors.

Lesson 4: (mainly reading)

- Read text on a related theme, e.g. giving an opinion for or against tattoos, body decoration, piercing etc. Probably a magazine article.
- Intensive reading through comprehension questions (written or oral).
- Teach emotive writing, generalisation and stereotyping (with example text).

Lesson 5: (mixed)

- Some integrated grammar features of the text.
- Post-reading focus on writer's attitude/opinion of tattoos, piercings, coloured hair etc. How do you know? What words?
- Remedial grammar from common errors in writing marked from lesson 3.

Lesson 6: (mainly writing)

- Fill in a form. All details should be accurate and complete and the responses clearly printed.

Lesson 7: (mainly reading) Based on "A man dreams dreams" by Siko ka Mjali

- Pre-reading activity: Give an opinion. To learners: Should parents be able to forbid their children from seeing certain friends (boyfriends or girlfriend)?
- Intensive reading with written questions on the story. Vocabulary building – unfamiliar words in the text (Dictionary work).
- Critical awareness. What is the writer's attitude/opinion? How do you know? What words are used to convey this? Learners' attitude /opinion?

Lesson 8: (mainly speaking and listening) Based on "A man dreams dreams" by Siko ka Mjali

- Give an opinion and listen respectfully.
- Each learner gives an opinion on a theme drawn from the short story "A man dreams dreams", using the same structure as the writing: Opinion plus reason/supporting evidence. OR Learners role play an exchange between Nomsa (or Themba) and uTata.

Lesson 9: (Integrated grammar) Based on "A man dreams dreams" by Siko ka Mjali

- Reported and direct speech conventions (revision).
- Learners write an exchange (five responses for each character) between Nomsa (Themba) and uTata in direct speech. This can be group work.

Lesson 10: (mainly writing)

(If the learners need more practice with the forms of direct speech, lesson 10 can be used for consolidations exercises/additional activities instead of the dialogue focus)

- Teach conventions of dialogue in contrast to conventions of reported speech.
- Learners rewrite their exchange (lesson 9) as a dialogue for an assessment mark.

Lesson 11: Formal assessment

- Grammar forms of common errors from writing in lessons 9 and 10.

- Intensive reading of text (400 – 500 words) with comprehension and integrated language questions.
- Some questions require the learners to read and assess an opinion and to give their own.
- Reported and direct speech conventions (revision).
- Learners rewrite some of what is in direct speech in reported speech.

On the following pages Teaching Plans are provided for each of Grades 10, 11 and 12. Please note that these are only EXAMPLES of how to organise the teaching of the First Additional Language over the period of a year.

Formal assessment tasks in Term 4
Task 11: End-of-year examinations

Paper 1: Language in context

Paper 2: Literature

Paper 3: Writing

Paper 4: Orals*

*Oral year mark from cumulative speaking and listening and/or reading. Final mark should include at least one prepared speaking task, one listening task and one other, e.g. prepared reading/unprepared speaking/informal speaking in group work.

3.5.3 Grade 12 teaching plan

This year plan presents a minimum of work to be covered and assessed.

In Grade 12 the texts for formal study (setworks) have been counted 1 – 18, i.e. about two hours per cycle for one poem or one short story or one unit of a novel or drama. If drama or a novel has been chosen, the teacher would need to divide the work into appropriate units to be covered in that time.

Much of the time in Grade 12 will be spent on revision and preparing learners for the final external examination.

SECTION 4

Assessment in First Additional Language

4.1 Introduction

Assessment is a continuous planned process of identifying, gathering and interpreting information about the performance of learners, using various forms of assessment. It involves four steps: generating and collecting evidence of achievement; evaluating this evidence; recording the findings and using this information to understand and thereby assist the learner's development in order to improve the process of learning and teaching.

Assessment should be both informal (Assessment for Learning) and formal (Assessment of Learning). In both cases regular feedback should be provided to learners to enhance the learning experience.

The assessment of language skills should be integrated. The assessment of a comprehension passage should be linked with language use. The assessment of writing should incorporate topics about things that happen in real life situations.

4.2 Informal or daily assessment

Assessment for learning has the purpose of continuously collecting information on a learner's achievement that can be used to improve their learning.

Informal assessment is a daily monitoring of learners' progress. This is done through observations, discussions, practical demonstrations, learner–teacher conferences, informal classroom interactions, etc. Informal assessment may be as simple as stopping during the lesson to observe learners or to discuss with learners how learning is progressing. Informal assessment should be used to provide feedback to the learners and to inform planning for teaching, but need not be recorded. It should not be seen as separate from learning activities taking place in the classroom. Learners or teachers can mark these assessment tasks.

Self assessment and peer assessment actively involve learners in assessment. This is important as it allows learners to learn from and reflect on their own performance. The results of the informal daily assessment tasks are not formally recorded unless the teacher wishes to do so. The results of daily assessment tasks are not taken into account for promotion and certification purposes.

4.3 Formal assessment

All assessment tasks that make up a formal programme of assessment for the year are regarded as Formal Assessment. Formal assessment tasks are marked and formally recorded by the teacher for progression and certification purposes. All Formal Assessment tasks are subject to moderation for the purpose of quality assurance and to ensure that appropriate standards are maintained. While preparations for formal assessment tasks could be done outside the classroom, the final version should be done under controlled conditions, in the classroom.

Formal assessment provides teachers with a systematic way of evaluating how well learners are progressing in a grade and in a particular subject. Examples of formal assessments include tests, examinations, writing tasks, oral presentations, demonstrations, performances, etc.

Formal assessment tasks form part of a year-long formal Programme of Assessment in each grade and subject.

The following tables provide the formal assessment requirements for First Additional Languages:

The forms of assessment used should be appropriate to age and developmental level. The design of these tasks should cover the content of the subject and include a variety of tasks designed to achieve the objectives of the subject.

Formal assessments must cater for a range of cognitive levels and abilities of learners, as shown below:

Cognitive Levels	Activity	Percentage of Task
Literal (Level 1)	Questions that deal with information explicitly stated in the text. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Name the things/people/places/elements ... • State the facts/reasons/points/ideas ... • Identify the reasons/persons/causes ... • List the points/facts/names/reasons ... • Describe the place/person/character ... • Relate the incident/episode/experience ... *Test 1 could be set out of 40 marks or, if more, should be converted to 40 marks. While the Comprehension, Summary and Language in context combination is suggested, teachers are urged to design a combination of aspects that fits the character (test programme, time allocation, etc.) of the school.

A test in the Programme of Assessment should not be made up of several smaller tests. Each test should cover a substantial amount of content, should be set for 45 – 60 minutes, and should reflect the different cognitive levels as set out for exam papers.

 Mid-year and Trial examinations: In Grade 12 one of the tasks in Term 2 and/or Term 3 must be an internal examination. In instances where only one of the two internal examinations is written in Grade 12, the other examination should be replaced by a test at the end of the term (Tasks 8 and 10).

Content to be covered

Assessment addresses the content as set out in this document. Owing to the conceptual progression of the content across the grades, content and skills from Grades 10 – 12 will be assessed in the external papers at the end of Grade 12.

Oral Assessment Tasks: Paper 4

The oral assessment tasks undertaken during the course of the year constitute the end-of-year external assessment for Grade 12. It constitutes 50 of the 300 marks in the end-of-year external assessment. The details for the oral tasks, which are administered during the year, are as follows:

Paper 4	DETAILS	MARKS
Orals	*Orals will be internally set, internally assessed and externally moderated. <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Speaking: Prepared speaking Assess: Research skills, planning and organisation of content, tone, speaking, and presentation skills, critical awareness of language usage, choice, design and use of audio, audio-visual aids	20	50
	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Prepared reading/unprepared speaking/informal speaking in group Assess: Content, tone, speaking, and presentation skills, critical awareness of language usage	20
	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Listening Assess: Listen critically for comprehension, information and evaluation	10

*Oral year mark from cumulative speaking and listening. Final mark should include at least one prepared speaking task, one listening task and one other, e.g. prepared reading/unprepared speaking/informal speaking in group work.

4.5 Recording and reporting

Recording is a process in which the teacher documents the level of a learner's performance in a specific assessment task. It indicates learner progress towards the achievement of the knowledge as prescribed in the Curriculum and Assessment Policy Statements. Records of learner performance should provide evidence of the learner's conceptual progression within a grade and her/his readiness to progress or being promoted to the next grade. Records of learner performance should also be used to verify the progress made by teachers and learners in the teaching and learning process.

Reporting is a process of communicating learner performance to learners, parents, schools and other stakeholders. Learner performance can be reported in a number of ways. These include report cards, parents' meetings, school visitation days, parent-teacher conferences, phone calls, letters, class or school newsletters etc. Teachers in all grades report in percentages against the subject. The various achievement levels and their corresponding percentage bands are as shown in the Table below.

CODES AND PERCENTAGES FOR RECORDING AND REPORTING

RATING CODE	DESCRIPTION OF COMPETENCE	PERCENTAGE
7	Outstanding achievement	80 – 100
6	Meritorious achievement	70 – 79
5	Substantial achievement	60 – 69
4	Adequate achievement	50 – 59
3	Moderate achievement	40 – 49
2	Elementary achievement	30 – 39
1	Not achieved	0 – 29

Teachers will record actual marks against the task by using a record sheet; and report percentages against the subject on the learners' report cards.

4.6 Moderation of assessment

Moderation refers to the process that ensures that the assessment tasks are fair, valid and reliable. Moderation should be implemented at school, district, provincial and national levels. Comprehensive and appropriate moderation practices must be in place for the quality assurance of all subject assessments.

4.6.1 Formal Assessment (SBA)

- Grade 10 and 11 tests and examinations are internally moderated. The subject advisor must moderate a sample of these tasks during his/her school visits to verify the standard of tasks and the internal moderation.
- Grade 12 tests and examinations must be moderated at provincial level. This process will be managed by the provincial education department.
- Subject advisors must moderate samples of tests and examination papers before they are written by learners to verify standards and guide teachers on the setting of these tasks.

4.6.2 Oral assessment tasks

- Grade 10 and 11: Each oral task which is to be used as part of the Programme of Assessment should be submitted to the subject head for moderation before learners attempt the task. Teachers assess the oral assessment tasks in Grades 10 and 11. The subject advisor must moderate a sample of oral assessment tasks during his/her school visits to verify the standard of tasks and the internal moderation.
- Grade 12: Oral tasks should be internally set, internally assessed and externally moderated. Each oral task which is to be used as part of the Programme of Assessment should be submitted to the subject head for moderation before learners attempt the task. Teachers assess the oral assessment tasks. The subject advisor must moderate a sample of oral assessment tasks during his/her school visits to verify the standard of tasks and the internal moderation. A sample of learners from each school must be moderated to verify the standard of their oral performance.

4.7 General

This document should be read in conjunction with:

4.7.1 National policy pertaining to the programme and promotion requirements of the National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12; and

4.7.2 The policy document, National Protocol for Assessment Grades R – 12.

GLOSSARY

acronym – a word made up from the first letters of the name of something, e.g. CAPS is an acronym for Curriculum and Assessment Policy Statement aesthetic – the use of language to create something artistic, fine and beautiful alliteration – the use of several words together that begin with the same sound or letter, e.g. Round the rocks the ragged rascal ran allusion – writing or speaking that mentions a subject, person, etc. indirectly, e.g. He alluded to the president's ill health
